SENATE APPROVES
300 MILLION FOR SLUM CLEARANCE

Increase in Lending Authorization of Housing Agen-

Works Bill.

MEASURE'S TOTAL
NOW $3,722,000,000

Leaders Hope for Final Vote Today—Amendment to Restrict Political Activity Defeated.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 3.—The Senate approved an additional $300,000,000 for slum clearance today, writing the authorization into the administration's relief-works bill to increase the measure's lending-authorization to $3,722,000,000. The action was taken on motion of Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York. Wagner pointed out that President Roosevelt had recommended in his relief message that the lending authorization of the United States Housing Authority be increased from $3,000,000,000 to $3,722,000,000.

Legislation to carry out the President's recommendations had been pending in both the House and Senate. Leaders said that after inclusion of the authorization in the relief-works bill the separate measure would be dropped.

Senate leaders speed consideration of the relief measure. They expressed the hope it would win final approval before today's session.

There was little delay in acting on the housing proposal, which was designed to permit expansion of slum clearance work in large cities.

Wagner explained it would involve no appropriation. It increases the housing agency's authorization for making slum clearance loans to public housing groups.

Townsend Criticizes Motion.
Senator Townsend (Rep.), Delaware, said the authorization would result in an increase in the public debt. The housing authority must borrow the money it lends out to local agencies, he asserted.

Before taking up Wagner's proposal, the Senate heard a suggestion from Senator Bankhead (Dem.), Alabama, that funds for the relief program be raised through the sale of Treasury obligations to the Federal Reserve banks. Bankhead said the banks could issue currency against the obligations purchased from the Treasury.

Senator Brown (Dem.), Michigan, termed the scheme "flat inflation." The Bankhead amendment also provided that Federal Reserve Bank profits be limited to 6 per cent, with any excess going to the Treasury. Bankhead said profits paid into the Treasury could be used to retire the bonds.

Action on both the Bankhead plan and a price stabilization amendment offered by Senator Logan (Dem.), Kentucky, was deferred.

Hatch's Amendment Beaten.
Although administration forces had confidently expected a final vote last night, Senators took so much time discussing controversial amendments that leaders felt the debate unfinished and recessed shortly after 10 p. m.

They had just won by three votes a fight against an amendment by Senator Hatch (Dem.), New Mexico, to restrict political activities of W. P. A. employees. Anti-administration Democrats and Republicans lined up for the proposal, but Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky rallied 39 votes against it to 37 for.

The final vote was made 40 to 37 when Senator Andrews (Dem.), Florida, recorded himself in opposition after the roll call result was announced.

The amendment would have required dismissal of any W. P. A. administrative worker who used his authority or influence to interfere with a political convention, a primary or a general election.

"If we build up a system in which we can use funds out of the Treasury to control the vote of the people," Hatch told the Senate, "then democracy is dead."

Majority Leader's Comment.
This amendment," rejoined Barkley, "would take the Federal Government and tie it to a tree, but it would leave the State employees free to roam as will."

The proposal was rejected after administration supporters, on a vote, threw out an amendment to restrict W. P. A. power activities. That amendment, ad-

WOODRING URGES U. S. TO FIGHT ON ECONOMIC FRONT

CITES BENEFITS OF RECIPROCAL PACTS

He Talks at Chamber of Commerce Luncheon After Reviewing Parade in His Honor.

Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, after reviewing a military parade in his honor on Memorial Plaza today, spoke at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon at Hotel Jefferson of the "economic armaments" with which, he said, the world must combat "the battered tin god of excessive economic nationalism."

He referred to efforts to increase world trade, particularly to the reciprocal tariff agreements which the State Department has been negotiating with other nations. Through these "economic armaments," he said, the United States should be able to reduce its dependence on constantly increasing armies and navies.

Secretary Woodring flew to St. Louis last night, accompanied by Senator Bennett C. Clark, for the three-day visit. He came to attend tonight's opening performance of the twentieth anniversary season of the Municipal Opera in Forest Park.

More than 500 attended the luncheon. Brief talks were made by Senator Clark, Gov. Lloyd C. Stark and Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann.

Trade Restrictions and Trouble. The expanding markets and rising standards of living which prevailed before the World War were attributed by Secretary Woodring to the unresisted status of world trade. The bellicose spirit existing in Europe and Asia, and the threat to peace and democracy which now troubles the world, he ascribed to international trade restraints engendered by the bitterness of the World War.

Giving a local application to his statements concerning the reciprocal trade agreements, Secretary Woodring said St. Louisans were interested in the latest agreement negotiated with Czechoslovakia, because of this city's manufacturing center. One of Czechoslovakia's principal exports is a cheap shoe.

Foreign countries account for 1 per cent of our total production of shoes," Secretary Woodring said. "In reducing the tariff on one style of shoes, it was stipulated that the tariff might again be revised when importations equal 1 1/2 per cent of our total output. Thus imports are definitely limited."

Tariff Benefits to U. S. "Czechoslovakia granted tariff benefits to 75 per cent of her imports from the United States, which should increase our sales of apples, prunes, automobiles and other products. The producers of these commodities, and their employees, will, consequently, have more money to spend, and some of their purchases are going to be more shoes."

The secretary touched briefly on wage standards in the South, where a controversial issue in Congress through efforts to include a differential in the wages and hours bill permitting lower minimum wages in the South. The real reason for lower wages in that section of the country, he said, is that 50 per cent of Southern labor is engaged in cotton production. The cotton producers are competing, he said, with the "lowest-paid labor in the world," as normally half of the South's cotton crop is exported.

No Protection to South. "Since Southern industry recruits most of its laborers from the surrounding cotton farms," he said, "it should be clear that the tariff gives no protection to Southern wages. Actually it is a severe depressant. It adds to the cost of the products the farmer and laborer must buy while at the same time it severely curtails the foreign demand for American cotton."

Not free trade, but freer trade is essential, Secretary Woodring said, to the restoration of industrial, political and social health of this country and the world.

"Let us remember," he concluded, "that economic, financial and social problems play a very important role in the maintenance of our peace, our security and our democratic government. Let us remember always that prosperous contented peoples never become greedy, dangerous neighbors."

Woodring Reviews Parade, Gets 19-Gun Salute. From the steps of the new Soldiers Memorial on the plaza Secretary Woodring reviewed the parade. In the reviewing stand, which were Mrs. Woodring, who arrived by train yesterday with Mrs. Clark, Senator Clark, Gov. Stark, Mayor Dickmann, Thomas N. Dwyer, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and former Mayor Henry W. Kiel, president of the Municipal Theater Association.

Guns of the 128th Field Artillery, stationed on the plaza, boomed the Secretary of War's 19-gun salute as he arrived at the reviewing stand, promptly at 11 a. m. The parade began then at Thirteenth and Olive streets, marching east to Twelfth, south to Chestnut, west past the reviewing stand to Fifteenth, south to Market and east to Twelfth.

For the 15 minutes while the parade was passing Secretary Woodring and those with him stood in attention. Mounted police led the parade, followed by State highway patrolmen in trim blue uniforms. Behind them rode Senator Clark, who had left the others at the reviewing stand to participate in the parade until it reached the Soldiers Memorial, where the crowd, standing four and five deep at the curb, was thickest.

Planes, Infantry, Artillery. Airplanes of the 110th Observation Squadron, Missouri National Guard, dropped overhead as the parade went by. The Sixth Infantry regiment from Jefferson Barracks, marching 12 abreast, bayonets glinting on rifles, followed Senator Clark's open automobile.

Behind them came the 188th Infantry, Missouri National Guard, the 128th Field Artillery; R. O. T. C. cadets of Christian Brothers College; United States Naval Reserve, and 400 St. Louis firemen.

Before the parade Secretary Woodring inspected the new 188th Infantry armory on Market street at Spring avenue, which he pronounced one of the best he had seen, and attended a reception in the office of Mayor Dickmann, at which he and Mrs. Woodring greeted about 300 city, State and Federal officials and their wives.

Program for Afternoon. Secretary Woodring's afternoon program called for an inspection of the Veterans' Hospital and Jefferson Barracks. Early this evening he and Mrs. Woodring will be entertained at the Dwyer home, 13 Kingsbury place, where they are guests during their visit here. After the Municipal Opera performance they will attend a supper at Hotel Chase, given by directors of the opera association.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodring will be entertained tomorrow at private functions. He will return to Washington, by plane, Sunday morning. A former St. Louisan, Lieut. William E. Hall, is co-pilot of the Secretary's army plane. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Will L. Hall, 6219 Rosebury avenue.

HOW JERSEY CITY OFFICIALS DECIDE WHO MAY SPEAK

Daniel Casey, Safety Director or Testifies Names Were Important in Granting Meeting Permits.

By the Associated Press. NEWARK, N. J., June 3.—Daniel Casey, Public Safety Director of Jersey City, told from the witness stand in United States District Court today how applications for outdoor meetings in Jersey City are passed on. A co-defendant with Mayor Frank Hague in the civil liberties injunction suit instituted by the C. I. O. and others, Casey was called as a witness by the plaintiffs. The names of speakers, he said, were an "important" factor considered in deciding whether to grant or deny permits. He himself made certain of the names, he added, while he and his secretary sometimes investigated applications, "according to who the parties were."

The permits, Casey said, were "just a matter of routine—I don't pay much attention to it." Counsel for Mayor Hague earlier had argued that the plaintiffs were trying to work a "scheme" to have the court hold that these men could not be Communists because they are New Deal Democrats and Catholics.

Wants Hands on Table. "Let us deal with our hands on the table and not from the bottom of the deck," Corporation Counsel James A. Hamill thundered at Spaulding Frazer, counsel for those suing for an injunction. "We will pin this scheme on you before the trial is over," he added.

Judge William Clark broke up the clash between counsel with a declaration that he deemed it "would be a most useful thing to have exploited under sworn testimony the exact nature of these plaintiffs."

"For the United States," he declared, Hamill promised it would be done, but later, both for the guidance of the court "and for the benefit of the United States."

Judge Clark started two days ago to ascertain from plaintiff-witnesses the religious and political beliefs, but desisted when Hamill objected. Frazer, dean of Newark Law School, had approved the questions.

Mayor Hague, vice chairman of the Democratic Committee in defending the refusal to allow meetings and other activities by the C. I. O., American Civil Liberties Union and other plaintiff groups, has denounced their leaders as "reds" and "radicals."

Today's examination of Hamill was a general review of the plaintiff's witness, Timothy O'Brien of New York, secretary of the Catholic Union of the Unemployed and member of the staff of the Catholic Worker, a monthly publication. Hamill insisted on knowing the ownership and management of the publication and Frazer accused him of badgering the witness.

Plaintiffs' counsel had expected to reach Hague today but an overnight shift in plans caused them to summon only Casey.

NAVY FIRES REAL TORPEDO IN SECRET TEST OF NEW HULL

Only Official Observers Permitted to See Effect of Explosion on Battleship Construction.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—The navy tested new "torpedo-proof" battleship construction in the Delaware River today with a real torpedo. The commandant's office at the Philadelphia Navy Yard confirmed the test but barred all but official observers. Navy planes were ready to force down any planes that might carry observers or photographers.

The new hull construction principles were carried out in building a special steel caisson which was the target of the torpedo. Similar experiments were reported to have been made recently at Norfolk.

The caisson simulates a segment of a battleship's hull. The design was reported to be an improvement over the "bilster" or false hull type perfected by the British.

Shops were looted at Green Island and militiamen made a bayonet charge on rioters at Richmond, where two persons were wounded. A caisson was fired at Lluissavale, where police charged a group of demonstrators with night sticks. The disorders were a continuation of demonstrations which have continued for several weeks since a group of sugar plantation workers walked out demanding increased wages and better working conditions.

LIFE FOR MINNEAPOLIS KILLING

Jury Finds Man Guilty of Beating Woman to Death.

By the Associated Press. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 3.—A jury convicted Kenneth Palmer, 40, job man and former W. P. A. worker, of second-degree murder today for the killing of Mrs. Goldie Rosen last Jan. 15. A life sentence is mandatory.

Principal witness for the State was Bernice, Mrs. Rosen's 14-year-old daughter, who lay unconscious for many days from the beating she received from her mother's killer, but finally recovered and identified Palmer as the killer from the witness stand. Palmer testified he had spent the night of the killing in beer parlors.

SENATE APPROVES 300 MILLION FOR SLUM CLEARANCE

vanced by the Appropriations Committee and bearing the enthusiastic endorsement of the private utility industry, was opposed by President Roosevelt. The chamber voted down, 85 to 17, a proposal by Senator Lodge (Rep., Massachusetts), to add a half billion to the $1,425,000,000 W. P. A. appropriations and to strike out "pump priming" features of the bill.

The Senators, speaking before a well-filled gallery, heard from Hatch that his amendment would apply to W. P. A. administrative workers the same restrictions which now govern civil service employees.

Barkley, who is opposed for re-nomination by Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky, protested that the restriction would keep W. P. A. workers "from expressing their private opinions" unless they sneaked around and whispered to somebody.

Playing of Politics.

Senators Wheeler (Dem.), Montana; McCarran (Dem.), Nevada; and Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, supported Hatch, Wheeler saying the "little fellows" in the W. P. A. would "play politics with human misery when they see the big chiefs in Washington doing it."

Shipstead said: "You can't have a free people unless you have free elections, and you can't have free elections if they can be bought with money."

Senator Tydings (Dem.), Maryland, who faces a primary contest with Representative Lewis, entered the debate to criticize "certain large salaried men in Washington who spend all their time trying to get opponents for Senators they can't beat down by threats or in any other way."

He added: Senate would support a resolution to have a small investigating committee appointed to look into these super-Government men who are devoting all their time to politics and so little to their jobs."

"They would have a big job," commented Wheeler.

Roll Call on Hatch Amendment.

Here is the roll call by which the Senate defeated the Hatch amendment.

For the amendment: Democrats—Bailey, Berry, Buckley, Byrd, Connally, Copeland, George, Gerry, Hatch, Holt, King, Longmeyer, Maloney, McCarran, Miller, O'Mahoney, Pope, Russell, Thomas of Utah, Van Nuys, Wagner and Wheeler—22.

Republicans—Austin, Borah, Capper, Frazier, Gibson, Hale, Johnson of California, Lodge, McNary, Townsend, Vandenberg and White—12.

Independent—Norris—1.

Progressive—La Follette—1.

Against the amendment:

Democrats—Adams, Bankhead, Barkley, Bilbo, Bone, Brown of Michigan, Brown of New Hampshire, Bulow, Byrnes, Caraway, Chavez, Dieterich, Ellender, Green, Guffey, Harrison, Herring, Hill, Hiram, Hughes, Johnson of Colorado, Lee, Lewis, McAdoo, McGill, McKellar, Minton, Murray, Neely, Overton, Pepper, Pittman, Radcliffe, Schwartz, Schwellenbach, Sheppard, Smathers, Truman, Tydings, Andrews—40.

Few were announced as follows: Senator Burke, for Thomas of Oklahoma, against both Democrats.

Power Proposal Voted Down. Prior to the vote which killed the P. W. A. restriction, the Senate rejected, 46 to 30, a compromise advanced by Senator Maloney (Dem.), Connecticut. The Maloney amendment provided a system of compulsory arbitration under which cities and utilities would agree on prices at which cities could buy existing privately owned plants.

Senator Pittman (Dem.), Nevada, the Senate president pro tem, asserted that while he favored the Government's power policy he did not favor "confiscation."

The Maloney compromise, Pittman asserted, would provide a "simple method" for carrying out the President's ideas.

"It is not proper legislation," he declared, to authorize the lending of money for what amounts to confiscation without having some provision that a reasonable purchase offer must be made."

Without the Maloney amendment, Pittman said, it would be necessary to "depend on the honesty, intelligence and fairness of one man"—the administrator who passed on the validity of the offer to buy and who decided whether the community was eligible for Federal help.

"Punishment of Investors." Senator Bailey (Dem.), North Carolina, took the floor to say that if "the purpose of our national policy has been to punish investors in utility stocks and bonds," the punishment has been adequate; and if the purpose has been to "destroy" the private utilities the Government should not have "marched farther to go."

Bailey said utility securities were widely distributed, and that, if it injured utilities, the Government harmed thousands of innocent investors.

"We've already destroyed the utilities' credit," he shouted to the chamber, "and now we want to serve notice (in rejecting the proposed restriction) that we are going to try to destroy them completely."

The Senate adopted on a voice vote an amendment by Senator Bone (Dem.), Washington, extending from next January to March 1 the deadline by which P. W. A. projects can be started under the pump priming program.

While the debate continued, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau suggested that Congress should give the President a free hand in determining how funds should be spent under the relief program.

"In the present situation," Morgenthau said, "where we do not expect Congress to meet again until next January and do not know whether the economic situation will get better or worse, the wise thing to do would be to give the President the right, as he had in other bills, to transfer funds from one title to another in order to take care of the situation."

LOYALISTS' DEFENSE LINE REPORTED BROKEN IN SPAIN

Rebels Say They Have Captured Mountain Positions, Establishing Semicircle About Albacacer.

By the Associated Press.

HENDAYE, France, at the Spanish Front, June 3.—Spanish insurgents declared today they had broken the Government's stubborn defense line west of Albacacer, opening the way for attacks from three directions on the coastal highway reaching south to Valencia.

Despite tenacious Government resistance, Gen. Miguel Aranda's Galicians captured the mountain positions of Villar de Canes and Torreda Emboscada, establishing a semi-circle of three miles radius about Albacacer. Both positions are west and south of the beleaguered town.

Albacacer has been the stronghold to the west of Alcala de Cordoba, which has defied efforts of insurgents to advance southward to Valencia since they cut Government Spain in two April 15 with the capture of Vinaros.

The fall of Albacacer, which insurgents claimed to have taken on April 20, would probably mean a collapse of the entire Government coastal line and give insurgents two broad high roads down which to hammer Valencia—the coastal highway and the Teruel-Valencia road.

Insurgents said 46, and possibly six more, Government planes were shot down during May. But a communiqué from Barcelona said insurgent planes were being shot out of the air while Government bombers and fighters patrolled insurgent lines, bombing and machine-gunning supply and relief columns.

Constantly increasing Government resistance allowed insurgents to make only slight gains down the Teruel-Valencia highway. Losses were declared to be enormous as Government militia and insurgents fought about Mora de Rubielos, 13 miles north of the highway.

As if demonstrating his manpower, Gen. Jose Miaja, in command of Government forces in Valencia and Madrid, massed several thousand militiamen in Jaen Province, 175 miles south of Madrid, and advanced a mile in the Pecos sector. The troops captured positions dominating the Salada River.

Gen. Miaja's forces, however, were questioned about "Communism." Their companions were permitted to go to their homes but the three victims were placed in cars in front of police headquarters, in the heart of Tampa and delivered to men who waited at other cars at the outskirts of the city. Taken to a lonely wood, they were flogged, tarred and feathered. Shoemaker died of his injuries.

In his trial the State contended that three of the five defendants were in the car in which Poulton was placed outside of the police station and that the other two were in it.

They were convicted of his abduction after a seven-week ending in May, 1936, but the conviction was reversed by the State Supreme Court on a technicality, and the same technicality was used by Judge Robert T. Dewell in a subsequent trial for the murder of Shoemaker to limit the evidence resulting in directed verdicts of acquittal.

It is generally thought that this will be the last of the flogging trials.

FLORIDA FLOGGING TRIAL AGAIN HELD UP TO FILL JURY

Venue of 25 Summoned to Select One as Alternate in Case Any Juror Becomes Incapacitated.

By SPENCER R. McCULLOUGH, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BARTOW, Fla., June 3.—The fourth Florida flogging trial was delayed again today when examination of 15 veniremen failed to qualify an alternate to serve in case any of the six jurors already chosen becomes incapacitated. Judge John L. Moore recessed court until tomorrow morning, directing meantime that 25 veniremen be summoned.

The defense has exhausted 11 of its 25 peremptory challenges, the State five.

As has been told, the defendants are five former Tampa policemen charged with the kidnaping of Eugene F. Poulton, the night of Nov. 30, 1935. They were members of a raiding squad which seized Poulton, Joseph E. Shoemaker and Stan J. Rogers and other leaders of the "Modern Democrats" without warrant, at a meeting in a private home.

Taken to police headquarters they were questioned about "Communism." Their companions were permitted to go to their homes but the three victims were placed in cars in front of police headquarters, in the heart of Tampa and delivered to men who waited at other cars at the outskirts of the city. ## DUE TO NEW EYESIGHT TEST

Of 28 Naval Academy Graduates Who Did Not Get Commissions, Virtually All Had Defects.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—A new Navy system of detecting faulty eyesight has cut short the careers of about 40 midshipmen, officials said today.

Of 28 Naval Academy graduates who received diplomas from President Roosevelt at Annapolis yesterday but were denied commissions, virtually all were disqualified by eye defects. Three will get a second chance in the fall, through a re-examination. Members of the second, third and fourth classes had been dropped for the same reason.

When the new system of detecting myopia, or near-sightedness, was installed last year, the elimination of 100 midshipmen aroused criticism in Congress. This year all information on the tests was withheld by Navy officials.

Admiral D. F. Sellers, who retired recently, told Congress in January he was responsible for the new tests. Appointees to the Academy now are rejected before they actually enter the school if they show myopic tendencies, whereas previously they might be half way through the four-year course before being dropped.

Judge, in Making Award, Denounces Firm for "Squeezing" Government.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—United States District Judge Oliver B. Dickinson, dismissed the Government's long-pending suit for $20,000,000 from the Bethlehem Steel Corporation today, but denounced the company for "squeezing the Government" while it was building ships for the World War.

"Cost plus 10 per cent" wartime contracts were the focal point of the Government's suit, brought by the United States Maritime Commission, successor to the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

The Court awarded the company an unpaid balance of $5,601,154, with 2 per cent interest since 1922. Judge Dickinson said he could not do otherwise under the contract between the Government and the company. He denounced bonus features of the contract, declaring: "Execution of a bonus for doing what it was the contractual duty of the employee to do and what it was otherwise paid for doing, partakes of the nature of a racket."

MOTHER TESTIFIES
AFTER HIS ARREST

Takes Stand in Attempt to ## Show He Was Confused

When He Told How

Bride Was Killed.

By the Associated Press.

PEKIN, Ill., June 3.—Mrs. Elizabeth Monroe Crabb, mother of James Crabb, testified at his manslaughter trial today that she had unsuccessfully tried to enter the Tazewell County Jail on the afternoon of March 12 in an effort to see her son.

James had been arrested shortly before, after he had testified at a coroner's inquest in Delavan that his bride of five weeks, Betty Collier Crabb, had died a suicide in an upstairs bedroom of his father's home early on the morning of March 1. She was found shot to death in the bedroom she occupied with James.

"I walked up to him. His eyes were dull. He seemed tired," Mrs. Crabb testified "were her impressions when she finally reached her son, about nine hours after his arrest."

Says He Repeated Phrases. "He kept repeating words—phrases. I couldn't talk to him. I turned to Sheriff Goar and said, 'What have you done to him?' and he said, 'We have treated him fine. We gave him two quarts of milk, didn't we, Jimmie?' and Jimmie said 'Yes.'"

Asked to repeat some of the phrases she had heard, Mrs. Crabb said he kept saying: "Suicide is such a disgrace—I loved Betty—it is more manly to say it's an accident."

"He acted like he was hypnotized," she added. Chief Prosecutor John Cassidy asked Mrs. Crabb if any one had offered to get Crabb a chair during the "25 or 40" minutes she was with him in the jail.

"No," she replied. "The damage was done." Mrs. Crabb was excused from the stand after having been a witness less than half an hour. She is divorced from Crabb's father, Willis Crabb, a Delavan (Ill.) banker.

Saint Jennings, a restaurant proprietor from East Peoria, Ill., also testified that Crabb seemed tired. Jennings also testified that Crabb talked in "disconnected words and phrases." Sharply cross-examined, he tried after a recess to revise part of his testimony, but was barred by State objections.

James G. Bailey, father of Mrs. S. Reukamp, who was hostess at a party attended by Betty and James Crabb prior to the shooting, was put on the stand in a defense attempt to introduce testimony as to what Crabb said the next morning.

The defense tried to impeach Sheriff Ralph Goar's testimony as to the method used in carrying the pistol after it was found in the Crabb home. Bailey said it appeared to be wrapped in a handkerchief and carried in the palm of his hand. The Sheriff had testified he knotted it in a handkerchief and carried it by the corners.

Mrs. Margaret Hoebel of Champlain, Ill., was the last witness before court adjourned until Monday. She testified Sheriff Goar had approached Crabb at the inquest and said, "Get your hat and coat, Jimmie, and come help me find Colleen." The Sheriff testified he had approached Crabb and told him he was under arrest.

Yesterday's Proceedings. The State completed its manslaughter case yesterday with the reading of an unsigned statement the defendant made in jail despite defense objections.

The substance of the statement was that young Crabb had the pistol in his hand when his wife "grabbed it" and it "went off," inflicting a wound from which she died in a few minutes.

The coroner's jury returned an open verdict, but recommended further investigation, after James had testified his wife committed suicide when he was in the bathroom getting an aspirin tablet for her.

Question and Answer Form.

The statement, witnesses testified, was in the form of questions and answers. The questions were asked by State's Attorney Rayburn L. Russell, and the answers were by James Crabb.

A portion of the direct text follows:

Q: Did you prepare for bed. A. Yes sir.

Q: Was there some commotion there? A. Yes sir.

Q: Was your father up? A. Yes sir, he was up.

Q: State whether or not there was any argument or discussion between you and your father. A. There was argument between father and I.

Q: Did you have a gun in your room. A. Yes sir.

Q: Did you at that time have the gun in your hand? A. Yes sir, I picked it up.

Brandished Pistol in Hall.

Q: Now will you state what you did with the gun and what happened. A. I picked it up, went around the bed to the hallway and brandished it out there and came back to the bed. My wife reached up and grabbed it.

Q: At the time she grabbed it, where were you standing? A. At the foot of the bed, about in the middle.

Q: Where was she? A. Sitting up in bed, leaning over.

Q: Were you facing her? A. Yes sir.

Q: You state she grabbed the gun? A. Yes sir.

Q: She was leaning forward? A. Yes sir.

Q: You were leaning across the foot of the bed? A. Yes sir.

Q: Then she grabbed the gun? A. Yes sir.

Q: Then the gun went off? A. Yes sir.

Q: And that was what shot her? A. Yes, evidently.

Q: Now state in your own words what took place then. A. She fell back. I became very frightened and muddled and I put the gun in the clothes closet.

Ran to Hallway.

Q: Then what did you do? A. I ran down the hallway and Catherine (Mrs. Catherine Crabb, his stepmother) was standing there at the door. We came back in the room and she said to come on out and said to call Dr. Brink.

Q: Before you left the room, is that when you pulled the pillow out from under her head and threw it on the floor? A. Yes, to ease her.

Q: Had the officers come back downstairs at the time you went back into the room? A. Yes sir.

Q: You were the only one in the room at that time? A. Yes sir.

Q: Then what did you do? A. Took the gun out of the closet, wiped it off with the sheet on the bed and put it between the mattress and the head of the bed.

Q: Why did you take the gun out of the closet, wipe it off with the sheet, and place it between the mattress and the bed? A. I was pretty excited and muddled.

The statement ended with the usual questions and answers in which Crabb said he had not been abused by officers in obtaining the statement.

USONA PLANT CLOSED

BY C I O-CALLED STRIKE

Rivalry With A. F. L. Union One of Issues in Deadlocked Negotiations.

The Usona Manufacturing Co. plant, 3510 Chouteau avenue, was closed today as the result of a strike called by the C I O Local No. 1009 of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers because of failure of union and company officers to renew a working agreement. The plant has 44 employees.

Negotiations failed yesterday over the C I O union's demand for a closed shop and recognition as exclusive bargaining agent for employees, which would have forced some of the plant's A. F. of L. members to join the C I O.

The two unions have been fighting over organization of metal fabricators for a year.

Doherty said that in order to determine the collective bargaining agent, the company held an election yesterday among employees, and the vote was 25 for the C I O representation and 17 for A. F. of L. Officers of the A. F. of L. union were not at the headquarters when a reporter called.

A stay-in strike which lasted two hours, was called by the C I O union at the plant a year ago when negotiations temporarily failed.

The company manufactures ornamental bronze fittings, grills and display cases. Completion of the Soldiers' Memorial on the Plaza was temporarily delayed when A. F. of L. workers recently refused to install display cases made by the company under a contract with the city.

At present there is unlimited parking a day in this area, which has resulted in the parking places on the street being taken early in the morning and held all day by persons employed downtown. The bill was introduced after a controversy with the St. Louis Symphony Society, who had objected to the elimination of multiple parking in the plaza during its concerts.

Another traffic bill passed by the board provides for one-hour parking only on the south side of Lindell boulevard between Grand boulevard and Spring avenue. The measure had been requested by the pastors of St. Francis Xavier (College) Church and St. Peter's Episcopal Church to provide some parking facilities for their parishioners. Both churches are on the south side of the street in that block.

Alderman Emmett Golden, floor leader, announced the tentative adjournment of the board for the summer had been changed from June 10 to June 17, pending more discussion of proposed new tax measures.

ALDERMEN PASS

BOND ISSUE BILL

Two $750,000 Proposals for Fire Houses and W P A Program to Be Submitted.

The Board of Aldermen unanimously passed today a bill which will submit two bond issues totaling $1,500,000 to the voters at the Aug. 2 primary election. The issues, for $750,000 each, would provide funds for the construction of new fire-engine houses and for the city's participation in the new anticipated W P A program.

Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann is strongly in favor of the bill and is expected to sign it when it is presented to him Monday.

Fire Chief John J. O'Boyle said that the money would enable the city to build two new engine houses in complete with new equipment. In the event they are built, he said, several houses which are obsolete would be abandoned.

The second bond issue would permit the city to buy the materials used in W P A construction work. A program of suggested projects, totaling about $300,000, has been submitted by the city to Washington for approval as soon as the relief bill, now under debate in the Senate, is passed. No money can be obtained from the W P A unless the city agrees to furnish the materials.

Both bond issues, which will be listed separately on the ballot, will need the endorsement of two-thirds of the voters for passage.

The board also passed a bill intended to relieve traffic congestion around the Municipal Plaza and also furnish some parking facilities for persons attending afternoon events at the Municipal Auditorium.

The bill, introduced by Alderman William J. Warnick of the Twenty-eighth Ward, calls for one-hour parking restrictions in the area bounded by Twelfth boulevard, Clark avenue, Fifteenth street and Pine street, between 7 a. m. and 2 p. m. After 2 p. m. there would be unlimited parking.

CHIEF FINDS NO PROOF OF FIREMAN'S LAXITY

Charge That Aid Was Denied Dying Man Not Substantiated, Says Report.

A charge that an unidentified fireman refused to go to the aid of a burned and dying man in a fire May 25 was found to be without proof in a report made today by Fire Chief John J. O'Boyle to Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann, who had ordered an investigation.

The charge was made at a coroner's inquest by Harry W. Pershall and Charles S. Gallaher, house painters, who testified they rescued Glenn Needling from the burning building of the Adjustable Bearing Plate Co., at 3625 Salena street, after a fireman whom they could not name or identify refused to go to the second floor for the man, who was crying for help.

"After investigation I find the Fire Department was without fault in its handling of the fire," Chief O'Boyle said to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "The charge that a fireman was lax in his duty was not substantiated by any proof."

All four members of Engine Company No. 3, first to arrive at the fire, denied categorically at the inquest that they knew Needling was trapped on the second floor, or that Pershall and Gallaher had asked one of them to get Needling out of the building. Pershall said that when he and Gallaher asked a fireman why he didn't go after the man he replied, "Why don't you?" Gallaher's version was that the fireman rejoined, "you can't go up there."

A coroner's verdict of accident was returned yesterday at the third session of the inquest. Assistant Circuit Attorney James E. McLaughlin announced there would be no grand jury investigation.

STATE SENATOR ROZIER INJURED BY AUTOMOBILE

In St. Louis Hospital After Car Hits Him as He Crosses Road Near City.

State Senator George A. Rozier of Perryville, Mo., was injured last night when knocked down by an automobile on U. S. Highway 61 at Arnold, 13 miles south of St. Louis. He was taken to De Paul Hospital. He suffered a laceration of the scalp and abrasions of the back and left leg.

Dr. J. G. Christy of Festus, Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives, who took Senator Rozier to the hospital, told police the driver of the machine was Gen. E. Parker, 1709 Park avenue. He said Parker was not to blame.

Dr. Christy had accompanied Senator Rozier to St. Louis and they were returning home in the Senator's automobile. At Arnold, Dr. Christy said, Rozier stopped his machine and crossed the road to speak to an acquaintance who had hailed him. As he was returning to the automobile he was struck by Parker's southbound machine.

$1,190,000 CLAIM FOR FLOODWAY DAMAGES DENIED

Court of Claims, Washington, Finds For Government in Suit by Owners of 20,000 Acres of Land.

HEARINGS IN 1935

Actions Totalling $78,000,- 000 Pending as Result of Bird's Point-New Madrid
Project on Mississippi.

A claim for $1,190,144 damages against the Government, brought by owners of 20,004 acres of timber land in the Bird's Point-New Madrid Floodway in connection with taking by the Government of an easement for Mississippi River flowage rights over the area, was rejected in a decision handed down at Washington Tuesday by the United States Court of Claims.

John C. Dyott of St. Louis, Special Assistant to the United States Attorney-General and attorney for the Corps of Engineers, Memphis District, who received a copy of the opinion today, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter the decision supported the Government's position as defendant in suits for an aggregate of $78,000,000, growing out of similar claims.

Contentions of Two Sides.
Owners of the land involved in the court's decision contended that the Government, by constructing a setback levee and providing for river water to cover the area in flood periods, caused a depreciation of $949,268 in value of standing timber, due to increased cost of operation, and a depreciation of $240,776 in value of potential agricultural land. The acreage, known as the Matthews tract, represents a substantial part of the 130,720 acres in the entire floodway.

The Government's position was that there had been no taking without just compensation, within the meaning of the fifth amendment, and that the claim for compensation was based on anticipated rather than actual losses which the owners would incur.

Dyott said the Government had filed condemnation suits for flowage easements against properties in the floodway, including the Matthews tract, but that these suits have been held in abeyance pending disposition of the claim against the Government. The Matthews tract also is known as the Gilchrist and Three States lands, comprising a virgin forest of mixed hardwoods and cypress. In the area is the "Big Oak," largest oak in the State, which, with 1030 acres of surrounding land, is in process of acquisition as a State park.

The Matthews claim was filed originally in 1932 and hearings were held in 1935. The case has been under advisement for nearly a year and a half.

Summary of Opinion.

The Court, in its opinion, points out that the lands involved frequently had been inundated by floods long before the floodway was proposed.

"The Government has not caused any additional backwaters to flow over or be impounded on plaintiff's land, nor has it caused any physical damage or injury to the land, the drainage ditches therein or to timber growing thereon," the opinion says. "Any backwaters or headwaters on plaintiff's lands will flow back into the channel of the river through the lower fuse plug section of the riverside levee and through St. John's Bayou as they have in the past when the tide of the river has sufficiently subsided."

The opinion, printed in a booklet of 59 pages, contains several charts, submitted in evidence by the Corps of Engineers, showing the effect of floodwater on the land from 1858 to 1937, including the major flood of the latter year. The opinion describes in detail, based on evidence submitted at the hearing closed, the steps taken in the dynamiting of fuse plug levees during the 1937 flood and concludes, "The only effect on plaintiff's property was a very thin deposit of silt which is in no way injurious either to the land or the timber."

SEC HEAD FOR ROUND-TABLE IDEA INSTEAD OF CRACK-DOWN

Chairman Douglas Offers Utilities
Co-operation in Unfreezing Capital Structures.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 3.—William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, said today he was in favor of "round-table" co-operation between the SEC and the New York Stock Exchange.

Talking to reporters following the first of what he indicated may be weekly meetings between SEC officials and those of the exchange, he said:

"We hope to solve them in the round-table manner. The old so-called crack-down is the antithesis of the round-table method. We feel we can assume Martin (William McC. Martin, chairman and temporary president of the exchange) will go along with us on this method. We see no need of further laws."

Douglas urged the utility industry to "unfreeze capital structures in order to attract new money" for construction. He said the industry was in a "dilemma" arising from the need for financial rehabilitation. He declared that the import of a "morass of accumulated unpaid dividends" amounting to about $432,000,000 "must be faced." He said the commission was ready to co-operate in forming recapitalization plans in accordance with standards set by the Utility Holding Company Act.

CIO ENDS NEW YORK SHIP STRIKE AFTER NINE HOURS

Jurisdictional Dispute With A. F. of L. Delays the Sailing of Several Vessels.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Thirty-three vessels lay idle in New York Harbor yesterday because of a nine-hour "labor holiday" called by the National Maritime Union, affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization. The union's purpose was to demonstrate its power to ship operators and to the American Federation of Labor. The immediate cause was the action of the Shepard Line Wednesday in hiring members of the International Seamen's Union, affiliated with the A. F. of L., and the Seafarers' Union of the Pacific, an independent group which is expected to renew its A. F. of L. affiliation, to replace Maritime Union men on the freighter Sea Thrush. Joseph Curran is the head of the Maritime Union, which ordered a 24-hour holiday to start at 8 a. m., but ordered the men back to work at 5 p. m.

Officers of the Maritime Union said that the demonstration was successful, and that 3300 of its members were employed on the 33 ships.

DEFENSE REBUKED FOR LAUGHING AT HARLAN WITNESS

Titters Interrupt Testimony of Negro Miner That He Was 'Exiled' to Work at 'Raven Rock.'

JUDGE RAPS, CALLS DOWN OFFENDERS

Others Tell of Being Sent to Unprofitable Part of Diggings for Union Activities.

LONDON, Ky., June 3.—United States District Judge H. Church Ford rebuked the defendants in the Harlan anti-union conspiracy trial today for laughing during the testimony of a Negro miner.

As the witness, Homer Butts, told of being "exiled" to a section of the R. C. Tway Coal Co. mine known as "Raven Rock," a chorus of titters came from the defendants' seats.

Judge Ford rapped sharply on the bench and, leaning toward them, warned: "This thing of laughing and such carrying-on in this courtroom is not going to be tolerated. Mr. Marshall, if there are any more such incidents, bring the offenders around and I'll undertake to take such steps as may be proper." Several miners have testified they were punished for union activities by being sent to "Raven Rock." Loading there was less profitable than elsewhere.

53-Year-Old Miner Testifies. Defense questioning of Jack Ricketts, 53 years old, who said he had been in the mines since he was 9, produced an angry cross-fire between opposing lawyers.

Ricketts had testified that George Titler, international representative of the United Mine Workers of America, had provided an automobile and a driver for him and other men to go to mines to seek work. He said he had been fired previously by the Clover Fork Coal Co.

"You have a back-pay claim before the National Labor Relations Board against Clover Fork in which you charge you were discharged for being a union member?" asked Forney Johnston of defense counsel.

"Yes." "Isn't it a fact that George Titler told you you would have to 'make a show' of hunting for work so you could back up your claim?"

The prosecution objected and was overruled. Intimidation Charge.

The trial neared the end of its third week in an atmosphere of tension caused by a defense accusation that the Government tried to intimidate prospective witnesses.

The defendants, Merle Middleton and Lee Hubbard, both former Harlan County deputy sheriffs, were arrested Wednesday on O'Leary's charge that they conspired to suborn perjury.

The defense motion stated it was necessary, because the Government filed no bill of particulars detailing its charges, for the defense to seek witnesses while the trial was in progress. In substance it denied Middleton and Hubbard attempted to obtain perjured testimony.

"This comes as a complete surprise to us," said Assistant United States Attorney-General Brian McMahon, chief of the prosecution staff. "As a matter of fact, we do not take it seriously and we deny any and all allegations of misconduct on the part of the Government."

Mentioned by Witness. Hubbard and Middleton were mentioned in the witness stand Monday by Ernest Huff, a Government witness. Defense objections halted his testimony after he told of meeting the two defendants in Ages, Ky., last week-end.

Arrested with the two former deputies on O'Leary's charge was Sammy Thomas, employee of a pool room Hubbard owns at Ages. The three were released under bonds of $3000 each pending the November session of the Federal grand jury.

The defense motion regarding O'Leary stated McMahon had said the Government expected to show that Hubbard and Middleton sought to procure a perjured statement from Huff "as to the whereabouts of Hubbard" the night of the killing of Bennett Musick in February, 1937. Musick was killed when a volley of bullets was fired into the Harlan County home of his father, an organizer for the United Mine Workers of America.

In a written response to the motion, the Government denied it had interfered with the gathering of defense evidence.

In the trial the Government seeks to prove that 20 corporations, 22 corporation executives and 23 former or present law officers conspired to deprive miners of the right to union organization.

ROOSEVELT TALK IN NEW YORK

58 OUSTED UNION EMPLOYEES SEEK $160,000 IN BACK PAY

Also Want to Be Rehired; Flour Mill Defendant in Aurora (Mo.) Labor Board Hearing.

AURORA, Mo., June 3.—The often-postponed hearing of union charges of unfair labor practices against the Majestic Flour Mills Co. opened here today before Peter F. Ward, trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board. Charges against the firm were filed by 58 former employees, all members of the Federal Labor Union, an A. F. of L. affiliate. Their complaint charges the company dismissed them for union activities on Aug. 20, 1935. They ask for reinstatement and back pay of $150,000.

The company's answer attacks the constitutionality of the Wagner Act, and asserts the NLRB has no jurisdiction in the case because the company carries on only intrastate business.

Illinois Marshal Renominated. WASHINGTON, June 3.—President Roosevelt has nominated William H. McDonnell for another term as United States Marshal for the northern district of Illinois. He also nominated Gordon Campbell of Carmel, Cal., to be Marshal of the United States Court for China.

By the Associated Press.
PRINCETON, Fla., June 3. — A fleet of boats extended the search for kidnaped James Bailey Cash Jr., southward into the Florida Keys today while J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, increased his force by 14 agents sent here by plane.
for the first time since he paid the $14,000 ransom Tuesday to investigate an erroneous report that his five-year-old son's body had been found. Mrs. Cash was in bed under the care of a doctor.
Lieutenant-Commander R. P. Mc-Connell, commandant at Miami, notified the Navy Department at Washington today that planes had been sent to assist in the search at the request of a Federal Bureau of Investigation official.
Cash emerged from his home with his brother, W. P. Cash, and two Federal agents and entered his automobile. With the father driving, the party sped by a roundabout route to a dump a mile east of the Homestead airport, south of here, where a Negro woman had found something in a burlap bag. It turned out to be the body of a dog.
Federal agents set divers to dragging the bottom of a deep pit in a swamp at Tavernier, 40 miles south of Princeton. It was stated unofficially that a piece of cloth had been found there. The search, however, disclosed nothing.
Fewer Searchers in Field.
Searching parties took the field in smaller numbers than those that have beaten the bush intensively for the last two days. The area of their hunt was broadened, some going as far north as South Miami and the Everglades along the Tamiami Trail, main highway to the West Coast. A group of 150 went into the Cape Sable area, southern tip of the mainland. Still others hunted along the coast to Card Sound, where a long wooden bridge takes the main highway to the first of the little islands that string out southward to Key West.
Working from boats, divers explored the bottom of the sound.
From other boats searchers hunted through the mangrove swamps and stony beaches along the shores.
Many Questioned.
Federal Bureau of Investigation agents questioned a growing number of persons, but indications they had uncovered any likely leads were lacking.
If the boy still lived, 2000 citizens who formed searching parties were determined to return him to his parents.
The searchers today pressed farther into the Everglades, described by Hoover as "one of the toughest handicaps the bureau has encountered in kidnapping investigations."
Saw grass, almost as high as a man's head, covers a large part of the area being searched, and there are occasional thickets, but few streams. Trails are rare and most of the volunteers go armed as protection against snakes and wild animals.
Divers searched water-filled quarries close to Princeton, while 65 craft of various kinds penetrated canals and cruised along the shore of Biscayne Bay, and around offshore keys.
The volunteer searchers worked only by day, night hunts being reserved by the authorities because of dangers of the snake-infested country.
The Federal agents yesterday broadcast the numbers of the $10-000 in ransom bills paid by the parents in the hope the kidnapers might have the way to arrest by spending some of the money.

Atlantic Clipper Cruises About On Water in Seattle; Not Tried in Air.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 3.—The "Atlantic Clipper" was tested yesterday on Seattle's harbor, and the test pilot, Eddie Allen, said the plane had "fine handling characteristics in the water—turns nicely on her rudder. Sweet job."

Just when the great seaplane will get into the air under the drive of its four motors was problematical. The motors, of 1500 horsepower, vibrated a little too much to suit either Allen or Wellwood E. Beall, the project engineer. Today additional work had to be done on the motors before additional taxing could be attempted.

LILY PONS AND BAND LEADER ON HONEYMOON

Singer and Andre Kostelanetz Leave by Auto After Wedding in East.

By the Associated Press.

NORWALK, Conn., June 3.—Lily Pons, singer, and Andre Kostelanetz, radio orchestra conductor, were on an automobile honeymoon of "five or six days" today, their destination a secret.

Miss Pons and Kostelanetz were married yesterday in a formal ceremony in a flower-banked cottage on her country estate in Silvermine about an hour after they obtained a license at the City Hall.

Only a few intimate friends attended the wedding, performed by Judge Nehemiah Candee of the Norwalk City Court. Among them were Geraldine Farrar, Grace Moore and Gladys Swarthout, all noted on the concert and operatic stage.

Miss Pons, in a formal white wedding dress with necklace, bracelet and muff all of white carnations, said, "I'm very happy."

Kostelanetz chimed in: "I am, too."

Miss Pons first announced she and Kostelanetz intended to wed in 1936 after she had returned from Hollywood on completing one of the several motion pictures in which she appeared. Kostelanetz said he had flown to the Pacific Coast 15 times that fall to carry on his courtship.

Miss Pons gave her age as 33, and Kostelanetz said he was three years older.

Miss Pons was previously married to August Mesritz. There was a Paris divorce in 1935.

Aldermen's Committee Takes Under Advice Measure to Force Immunizing of Dogs.

A bill to compel vaccination of dogs against rabies was opposed by city health officials yesterday at a public hearing before the Public Safety Committee of the Board of Aldermen. Chairman Hubert A. Hoeflinger said it would be taken under advisement until opinions were obtained from United States Public Health authorities on the effectiveness of vaccines.

The proposed ordinance, sponsored by Dr. C. Herman Beckman, 4424 Chippewa street, a veterinarian, would require St. Louis dog owners to show a certificate showing the dog had been vaccinated before a license could be issued. Annual vaccination, at a cost of about $2, would be required.

Dr. C. A. Brandy of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture spoke in behalf of the bill, asserting that vaccines had proved 85 per cent effective and that Detroit had virtually eliminated rabies by such an ordinance as that proposed for St. Louis.

Dr. Joseph F. Bredeck, Health Commissioner, and Dr. Downey L. Harris, city health department bacteriologist and rabies control specialist, opposed the ordinance and quoted national authorities as saying the effectiveness of present vaccines had not been definitely proved. Arnold Amundsen, manager of the Humane Society of Missouri, joined them in their contention that the destruction of stray dogs was the best means of control.

WAITER SOUGHT AFTER KILLING OF BEAUTY PARLOR OPERATOR

Syracuse (N. Y.) Police Wish to Question Him—Body Found in Cedar Chest.

By the Associated Press.
SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 3.—Police sent out today an alarm for the arrest of a man wanted for questioning in the killing of Miss Laura Krenrich, 38-year-old beauty parlor operator. The man was a waiter employed in a Syracuse restaurant.

Miss Krenrich's body was found wedged in a cedar chest in a closet in her apartment yesterday by Patrolman Earl Nicholas, a neighbor, after other residents of the building expressed the fear that something had happened to her. The apartment was nearly devoid of furniture.

Police learned the furniture was sold Wednesday by the waiter, who also lived in the apartment.

Mrs. Lola Workman, a relative of the dead woman, Rapp said, told him she had played cards with Miss Krenrich and the waiter until late Saturday night. The man was last seen in Binghamton.

Miss Krenrich had been married but was separated from her husband.

INQUIRY IN CAUSE OF MINE EXPLOSION IN WHICH 10 DIED

Inspectors at Scranton, Pa., Investigate Possibility That Gas Seeped in From Old Workings.

By the Associated Press.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 3.—An explosion killed 10 miners yesterday in the Volpe Coal Co. mine. State mine inspectors who donned gas masks and went with rescue squads 700 feet beneath the earth's surface to remove bodies and bring out six injured said the exact cause of the blast might not be determined for several days.

The dead: Alex Glanko and John Clark, both of Moosic; John Kovaleski, Martin Wowniak, Adam Mark, Gus Podzich, John Phillips, Michael Gurny and John Lokuta, all of Dupont; and Sam Adonisio, of Hughestown.

Seriously injured were John Waskiewicz of Dupont and Peter Morgantini of Pittston. They were treated at the Pittston Hospital for skull fractures and severe burns.

State mine inspectors examined a possibility gas might have seeped in from abandoned workings nearby. They said props in the shaft were wrecked and coal tumbled down into chambers and gangways. They ordered a new ventilating system put into operation to make safe the work of clearing out the debris.

Eight men were killed and 10 hurt April 27 by an explosion of gas in the St. Clair coal mine, near Pottsville.

CONFEDERATES SET OUT FOR GETTYSBURG 75 YEARS AGO

Anniversary of Longstreet's Departure From Fredericksburg on Northern Campaign.

By the Associated Press.
FREDERICKSBURG, Va., June 3.—Seventy-five years ago today the Confederate Army corps of Lieutenant-General James B. Longstreet marched out of Fredericksburg, headed for the upper fords of the Rappahannock River, in the first movement of the campaign that was to reach its climax at Gettysburg.

Gettysburg was a full month and 250 miles away that June day in 1863, and the Gray Army, unshaken by the loss of Stonewall Jackson, was confident.

Veterans of the Union and Confederate armies will meet in reunion at Gettysburg June 28-July 4, to commemorate the battle.

RUSH OF FILING IN PRIMARY; TIME EXPIRES TONIGHT

Candidates for Party Nominations, Especially for Minor Offices, Press in at 11th Hour.

Time for filing candidacies for party nominations in the primary of Aug. 2 will expire at 9 o'clock tonight. There has been the usual rush of aspirants, especially for minor offices, and the Election Board was prepared to receive many more today.

Local offices for which nominations will be made are: Six places as Circuit Judges, Probate Judge, Judge of Court of Criminal Correction, Prosecuting Attorney, Circuit Clerk, Clerk of Circuit Court for Criminal Causes, Clerk of Court of Criminal Correction, License Collector, Recorder of Deeds, Collector of Revenue, three State Senators, 19 State Representatives, 11 Justices of the Peace, 11 Constables, also three Congressmen. St. Louis voters will join the rest of the State in nominating candidates for United States Senator, two places in the Supreme Court and State Superintendent of Schools.

Priest and Renick.
As the end of filing time approached there was considerable speculation in political circles as to whether Circuit Clerk H. Sam Priest would be opposed for the Democratic nomination to succeed himself. He has been aligned with a party faction unfriendly to Mayor Dickmann and politicians have expected some Dickmann follower to oppose Priest, although the Mayor has asserted a noncommittal attitude.

Fred A. Renick, License Collector, a political protégé of the Mayor has not decided whether to file for the collectorship again or to run for Circuit Clerk. John J. Dwyer, Twelfth Ward Committeeman, has indicated he would run for one or the other of these offices, depending on Renick's decision.

Charles Conners, Superintendent of Parks for the city and Twenty-eighth Ward Democratic committeeman, announced that he would seek the party nomination for Recorder of Deeds, opposing John P. Engleish, the incumbent. Conners said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he had not received assurance of support from Mayor Dickmann or fellow committee members. Engleish, was ousted as chairman of the committee some time ago by the Mayor's faction.

For Congress in Twelfth.

Two lawyers filed yesterday for the Republican nomination for Congressman from the Twelfth District which covers St. Louis County and a large area in St. Louis. They are Raymond E. La Driere, 9 Picardy lane, Ladue, who is associated with the firm of Fordyce, White, Mayne, Williams & Hartman, and Russell J. Horsfield, 7151 Cambridge avenue, University City.

Assistant Circuit Attorney James E. McLaughlin, Democrat, who filed his candidacy for an unexpired term as Circuit Judge, will submit his resignation today, effective June 15, he told reporters. Frank E. Mathews, 6821 Itasca avenue, until a few months ago an Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, filed for a Democratic nomination for another unexpired term as Circuit Judge.

Other candidates for Democratic nominations included: William J. Gesske, 9429A Exds avenue, Clerk of Court of Criminal Correction; Myles Patrick Dyer, 4403 Holly avenue, State Senator, Thirty-fourth District; Frank Dorsey, 948 Fillmore street, State Representative, First District; Lee Niederberg, 415 North Broadway, Representative, Third District; James McMillan, 704 Goodfellow boulevard, and John A. Bodart, 4452 St. Louis avenue, Representative, Fifth District; James H. McAteer, 5613 South Broadway, incumbent and a Democratic committeeman, Justice of the Peace, First District; Alfred Bruce, 3206 Lawton boulevard, Constable, Fourth District.

Republican Vacancy.

There remained today one vacancy to be filled on the slate for local offices to be supported in the primary by the Republican City Committee—Clerk of the Court of Criminal Correction. The committee expected to have an acceptable candidate before filing time expired.

Candidates on this slate, who filed yesterday, included: Edw. A. Smith, W. C. McLaughlin and Louis Shifrin, running for unexpired terms as Circuit Judges; Frans A. Cramer, running for Collector of the Revenue; Edward H. Rabenberg, running for Recorder of Deeds, and Earl V. Pallas, running for Clerk of the Circuit Court for Criminal Causes.

Others who filed for Republican nominations included: William Gray, 5836 Julian avenue, Congressman, Thirteenth District; Frederick J. Corbett, 1428 Locust street, full term as Circuit Judge; Thomas Tu-hill, 3524 North Spring avenue, Clerk of Court of Criminal Correction; Cornelius J. Stettler Jr., 3631 Junata street; Harvey L. ### BANKRUPT'S LIFE POLICIES HELD EXEMPT FROM CLAIMS

U. S. Judge Declares State Law Applicable, in Appeal by Emmett W. LaTourette.

Life insurance policies of bankrupts are exempt from creditors' claims when the exemptions come within State law and State law is applicable, United States District Judge Charles B. Davis ruled yesterday in upholding the appeal of Emmett W. LaTourette from a ruling of the Referee in Bankruptcy. The referee had sustained the trustee in disallowing LaTourette's claim for exemption of two policies with a total face value of $6000 on the ground that he had retained the right to change the beneficiary, his wife, and that hence she had no vested interest in the policies. Judge Davis held the Missouri statute providing a policy payable to a wife should be exempt from claims of her husband's creditors when the annual premium did not exceed $500 was applicable. LaTourette, a resident of Hotel Jefferson, filed a bankruptcy petition last June, listing liabilities of $39,821 and assets valued at $43,530.

NO-TRUE BILL IS VOTED IN GRANITE CITY KILLING

Grand Jury Does Not Act Against Man Who Shot Wife's Admirer.

A no-true bill was returned by the Madison County grand jury today in the case of George K. Durbin Jr., Granite City filling station proprietor, who shot and killed his wife's admirer, Leslie Barr, May 19. The effect was to terminate prosecution.

The coroner's jury had held that Durbin was without blame, "inasmuch as we feel that a man has a right to protect his own home." However, the State's Attorney's office charged Durbin with murder, in a warrant, and submitted the matter to the grand jury last week.

Durbin, going to his home to take some oranges to his wife, who was ill, found Barr there, scuffled with him and, when Barr fled down the street, shot him in the back. Barr, sales manager of a Madison lumber company, was the father of three children.

OLD MARY INSTITUTE BUILDING TO BE WRECKED

Structure It Occupied at Beaumont and Locust to Be Razed to Save Maintenance Cost.

The building occupied by Mary Institute from 1878 to 1901, at the northeast corner of Beaumont and Locust streets, will be wrecked, Isaac Hedges, manager of Washington University's real estate, announced today, to save maintenance costs.

The five-story brick structure was abandoned for the building at Lake and Waterman avenues in 1901. The school's first home was on Locust street between Fourteenth and Fifteenth, on the site now occupied by the Y. W. C. A. Mary Institute is now at Ladue and Watson roads.

The building has been sold to Rudolph Brock, who on Monday will begin wrecking it and the two-story structure, formerly the school gymnasium, on the same lot. Hedges said it had not been decided what use would be made of the lot, which measures 175 by 135 feet. Tax reduction was not a factor, as the university's property is exempt from taxation, but Hedges said maintenance of the building, vacant for about 10 years, was expensive. The latest tenant was the Strauss Saddlery Co.

MASONS TO PARADE TOMORROW FOR CORNERSTONE CEREMONY

Celebration to Be Held at New Women's Addition to Lodge Home.

Several thousand members of various Masonic lodges of St. Louis and St. Louis County will parade tomorrow afternoon as part of the ceremony which will precede the laying of the cornerstones of the new women's addition to the Masonic Home of Missouri, Delmar and Union boulevards. Starting at 2 o'clock, after an assembly in Tuscan Lodge, Kingshighway and Westminster place, the parade will proceed in Lake and Washington avenues, Delmar boulevard and E. 18th street to the Masonic Home. Chief speaker at the ceremony there will be the Rev. Harold L. Reader, grand master of the Lodge of Missouri.

The nine-story building, nearly completed, will house 185 women. Its total cost is estimated at $400,000. The lodge plans to hold the dedication in September.

APPROVAL FOR $57,000,000 SLUM CLEARANCE PROJECTS

President Acts on Earmarkings for Eight Cities—Monthly Rentals
$3.75 to $4.25 per Unit.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—President Roosevelt announced today he had approved earmarkings of $57,000,000 of United States Housing Authority funds for slum-clearance projects in eight cities—Allentown, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; Birmingham, Ala.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Cleveland and Columbus, O.; Detroit and Pittsburgh.

Mr. Roosevelt said at his press conference that he had talked over slum clearance last night with Nathan Straus, U. S. H. A. Administrator, and that rentals on the eight projects would be from $3.75 to $4.25 per unit per month.

To date, Mr. Roosevelt said, there had been earmarked for various cities, including many small cities, $337,000,000 of Housing Authority bonds. Against this, he said, contracts totaling $111,000,000 had been let.

X-RAY SHOWS SWALLOWED PIN

Woman Who Yawned and Gulped
It Still Under Hospital Care.
Miss Leona La Firo, who swallowed a pin Wednesday when she yawned with the pin in her mouth, probably will not have to undergo an operation, physicians attending her at City Hospital said today. An examination by X-ray showed the pin in her stomach.

She swallowed the pin when sewing on a dress at her home, the St. Louis Social Security's Shelter for Women, 815 Aubert avenue.

Britain Takes 2-1 Lead In Walker Cup Play

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, June 3.—Great Britain's Walker Cup golfers, seeking their first victory in the international series begun in 1922, came off the St. Andrews Old Course at the end of today's inaugural Scotch foursome matches holding a 2 to 1 lead over the United States trophy defenders. Eight singles matches tomorrow complete the event.

Of the four American combinations, only one, that of Charley Yates of Atlanta, winner of the British Amateur title last week, and Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., came through a victory. They turned back Charles Stowe and Alex Kyle of England, 3 and 2, after holding a seven-up lead at 27 holes.

Johnny Goodman, United States amateur champion, and his partner, Marvin (Bud) Ward of Olympia, Wash., dropped a 4 and 2 decision to the all-Scottish combine of Hector Thomson and Gordon Peters, while Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans and Reynolds Smith of Dallas were nosed out, 2 and 1, by Leonard Crawley and Frank Pennink, both Englishmen.

The No. 1 team, Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati and Charles (Chuck) Kocals of Detroit for the United States and young Jim Bruen and Harry Bentley for Britain, finished their 36-hole struggle all square. Two up after 27 holes, the Americans couldn't match the blistering pace set by the Britons, who

Giants Need Help.
THE CARDINALS are not the only club having infield trouble. Second base is not being covered satisfactorily for the Giants and Bill Terry is reported in the market for somebody to take over the position handled so brilliantly by Burgess Whitehead during the last two seasons.

Whitehead was considered lacking in stamina when he was with the Cardinals, but he played 154 games for the Giants in 1936 and 152 in 1937 and helped the New Yorkers to two pennants. He batted .278 in 1936 and climbed to .286 the following year, entirely satisfactory in view of his unusual brilliance in the field.

Whitehead suffered an appendix attack last winter, tried to return to duty too soon after an operation and when he suffered a nervous breakdown he was sent home to recuperate. He is not expected to return before next season, if then.

Mel Ott Did It.
Last year when Lou Chiozza failed to measure up to Terry requirements, Bill called Mel Ott from right field and sent him to third base. Immediately the Giants began to win and they went on to retain the league championship.

This year Terry gave Chiozza the job at second base and he performed satisfactorily for a time, but Chiozza can't cover as much ground as Whitehead and largely because of the infield weakness, the Giants have lost much of the lead they piled up in the early weeks of the race. This morning they were only 2 1/2 games ahead of the Cubs.

The Cub Spurt.
Return of his pitchers to a better stride is helping Charley Grimm's Cubs to climb back into the running. Bill Lee, after a disappointing start, suddenly struck a brilliant stride and the entire Chicago staff perked up.

Grimm, moreover, has an ace in the hole. At last he hopes it is an ace. It looked like one when Phil Wrigley peeked back in mid-April and shoved 185,000 dollar chips into Sam Breadon's lap. The Cubs are trying valiantly to nurse Dixie Dean back into winning form. He might have pitched a week ago. It would have helped the gate. But Wrigley wasn't thinking of the gate when he poked and pushed. He was thinking of a pennant. And if Dixie could regain something resembling his old pitching skill, say about July 1, the Cubs could make a runaway of the 1938 pennant race.

The Paul Dean Case.
Fans are puzzled by the attitude of Paul Dean, who apparently is not sure what he wants to do. The Cardinals in effect are permitting him to determine his own future, except that they naturally do not want to surrender titles to the services of the once brilliant pitcher.

There is a definite club side to the picture. The Cardinals developed Paul Dean and paid him his full salary in 1936 when he was placed on the voluntarily retired list after winning five and losing five. His salary for those 10 games of record was approximately $12,000. Naturally the club wants to realize on that investment if Paul ever regains his pitching skill.

Miracle Man Casey.
The surprise team of the young 1938 season will call at Sportsman's Park tomorrow when Casey Stengel's Bees join battle with the Cardinals. Bill McKechnie led the Bees last year and did so well, with the aid of Jim Turner and Lou Fette that he won himself a highly remunerative job at Cincinnati. Stengel then took over the management of the Bees.

Today the Boston Nationals are in third place and the pitcher are doing as well for Stengel as they did for McKechnie. Wilkinsburg William, however, is doing all right himself. He has the 1937 last-place Cincinnati club in fourth position and at Boston and Cincinnati the customers are willing to admit that a manager can make a whale of a difference.

BROWNS' GAME WITH RED SOX IS POSTPONED

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, June 3.—The final game of the series between the Browns and Red Sox, scheduled for this afternoon, was prevented by rain and was postponed. The Browns play at New York tomorrow.

Manager Street announced that Buck Newsom, Jack Knott and then Howard Mills would probably pitch the three games against the Yankees starting tomorrow with Newsom, who was all set to go today.

CHAMPION GULDAHL USES 78 STROKES IN PRACTICE AT DENVER

DENVER, June 3.—Ralph Gulda, National Open golf champion, used seven strokes more than par yesterday to go around the Cherry Hills golf course, his first trip over the course where he will defend his title next week-end.

Gulda shot a 78 while his partner, Jimmie Hines, metropolitan open champion, shot a 73, two over par.

The champion declared the course was very difficult and predicted there would be no freak low scores at the open June 9 to 11. He predicted a 284 five strokes over the open record he established last year at Oakland Hills, Birmingham, Mich., would be good enough to win the 1938 tournament.

TIE FOR GOLF TITLE OF BAR ASSOCIATION

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., June 3.—T. J. Welch of Kewanee and Emerson Williams of Clinton tied yesterday for the Illinois State Bar Association Golf Championship played over 18 holes. Bob Williamson of Springfield won the handicap tournament and the Adams County Bar Association team title.

Cards Should Win Pennant, Optimist Rickey Tells Optimists

The Cardinals are aiming at the pennant this year. Branch Rickey, vice-president and general manager of the St. Louis Club said this afternoon at a luncheon of the Optimist Club, of which Rickey is a member.

"We won't be content with sixth, fourth, third or second," Rickey said. "We are aiming for the pennant and although we have our head in the stars, we believe we'll make it. I still stick to my original statement that the Cardinals of today are the best ball club we have had in 15 years with the exception of pitching, which is problematical. Now, though, I believe that the pitching is all right and that it was under-estimated at the start of the season."

Rickey introduced Manager Frank Frisch, each of the 23 active players of the Cardinals, the coaching staff and business staff at the luncheon. When it came time to present Roy Henshaw, outpaw pitcher who recently was ordered sent back to the Cardinals by Commissioner Keneaw M. Landis, Rickey said:

"Welcome back, Roy. Sorry I wasn't here in St. Louis to see you pitch yesterday. You can make us very glad we got you by winning more games for us."

Manager Frisch evidently had heard that the Cincinnati protest of the Cardinals' victory May 14 had been upheld by President Ford Frick of the National League and that the game had been ordered re-

COL. HATFIELD PAYS $85 FOR $2 AT FAIRMOUNT

By Dent McKimling
FAIRMOUNT RACE TRACK, June 3.—The long-est-priced winner of the meeting, Col. Hatfield, opened this afternoon's program with a bang. While the public supported Slou Chief at odds of 2 to 1, Col. Hatfield, a one-time stake winner, was overlooked. His closing price on the probable odds board was 20 to 1 and those who held winning tickets were given a pleasant surprise when the refund was posted as $85.40 for $2.

Col. Hatfield was not a factor until the field turned into the stretch. The horses were well bunched all the way through the five and one-half furlongs and the judges called for the official photo to place the winners. Slou Chief was second and Major Bowes third.

The favorites took a beating in the second race, too, when Incongnito and Mabel Miller were squeezed out of the money as Rapid Bells, at 8 to 1, finished first. Thistle Genie, another long shot, was second and Bonnie Dream third. The mutual board was filled with boxer figures. Neither of the favorites could get up to the leaders at any stage of the race. Noma F., Bonnie Dream and Rapid Bells taking turns at setting the pace. Joe Dyer, 30 years young, gave the winner a vigorous ride.

Rory Doon, pacemaker all the way through the six furlongs, took the third race in a drive from Lopez, Bay Boy and nine others. Deller, the 2-to-1 favorite, was making better speed than any of the others at the finish, but had lost too much ground to catch Bay Boy for third money. When Lopez threatened to catch Rory Doon in the last 70 yards, Jockey Bobby Mason settled the issue by stinging the mare a few times with the whip. The winner paid $12.20 for $2.

Daily Double Pays $230 for $2.
The daily double of $230.60 paid on Rapid Bells and Rory Doon was the largest of the meeting.

Topped by Bill Donohue, Professor Paul and Little Nymph, the featured race on tomorrow's program, the Mounds Handicap at six furlongs, is more attractive than any race offered thus far. Jockey, Fast Move and other fast ones are included in the field of 11."

Athletic Head Resigns.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 3.—Harry Adams Stansbury resigned last night as athletic director of West Virginia University, a post he has held for almost 22 years. Stansbury, who is 46, said he has accepted the position of managing director of the West Virginia Chamber of Commerce.

No. 30 in "2500-Hit Club"

By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, June 3.—Paul (Big Poison) Waner, joined the major leagues "2500-hit" club this afternoon by getting a pair of singles in the first four innings of the Bucs' game with the Giants at P. Those two hits were the 2499th and the 2500th of the 13-year career, making him the thirtieth batter in all baseball history to join the select 2500 set. He is the only National League player, still in daily big league harness, to have that total. The most recent senior circuit slugger with 2500 or more hits for their careers were Frankie Frisch and Rogers Hornsby, neither of whom is now active.

MANION ENTERS FRICK ORDERS SEMIFINALS IN FULL REPLAY OF DISTRICT GOLF DISPUTED GAME

By Robert Morrison
GLEN ECHO COUNTRY CLUB, June 3.—Jimmie Manion, Meadowbrook veteran staged a great closing drive to eliminate the young Crystal Lake golfer, Gene Fehlig, 5 to 4, in their quarter-final match in the district golf match here this afternoon.

After he was held even at the turn, Manion won the next five holes to gain the victory. He sank an eight-foot putt for a birdie 2 on No. 14 while Fehlig missed a putt of equal length and lost the match.

Manion was one under par for the 18 holes. Each had a 37, even with standard figures, for the first nine.

Manion won the tenth with a par four, the eleventh with a one over par four. Then he hit par on No. 12 to go three up. His birdie on No. 13 beat Fehlig again, and then came his winning duce.

The Manion-Fehlig card: Out-Par — 4 4 4 5 4 3 5 5 3—37

YATES TO PLAY BRUEN IN FIRST OF CUP SINGLES MATCHES

CONTROVERSY OVER RULING ON FISCHER GAME

romped home in 32, five under par, for an afternoon 18-hole score of 68, also five under par.

Fischer and Kocsis shot a 70 in the afternoon round and posted a 72 in the Bentley-Bruen 75 in the morning.

The two British points were the first the home forces have been able to score since 1934, when they lost, 9 matches to 2. Two years ago, at Pine Valley, N. J., they were shut out, 9 to 0, while halving three matches.

Thank you, John Bull. But for one of the most generous gestures any British team ever made to America, the score would have been 3 to 1 for Britain.

At the twenty-first hole, with the United States team leading, 3 up, Fischer inadvertently played out of turn. Bentley and Bruen, however, refused to accept the penalty for which they were entitled, and then went on to their brilliant finishing burst.

Two glorious money putts, one of nine feet by Bruen, the 18-year-old Irish sensation, at the thirty-fourth and one of 80 feet by Bentley at the thirty-fifth, both for 24, wiped out the lead Fischer and Kocsis had held most of the day.

Goodman and Ward collapsed after winning the first two holes in the afternoon and cutting the Thompson-Peters lead to one. Neither was putting well and Goodman frequently was off line with his iron.

Both defeated United States teams lost on the big greens which, having been mowed early this morning, were unusually keen. Yates' pitching and putting, which had so much to do with his victory in the amateur, gave his team the lead, but even they had to battle for victory after being down six.

Only once before in the series, in which the United States has won all nine previous matches, was Britain able to take the lead in the Scotch foursomes. That was in 1923, also at St. Andrews, when the British won three of the four foursomes but lost the trophy, 6 to 5, in the closest battle there has been so far.

In tomorrow's first singles match Yates will go up against Bruen, who played 72 holes at St. Andrews in the team trials a month ago in 1932.

Following at 10-minute intervals will be these matches: Goodman vs. Thompson, Fischer vs. Crawley, Kocsis vs. Stowe, Ward vs. Pennick, Billows vs. Cecil Ewing, Smith vs. Peters and Haas vs. Kyle.

A controversy broke out after the conclusion of the matches as to whether Bentley had had any right to concede Fischer and Kocsis their half on the twenty-first hole. The match was refereed by Harold W. Pierce of Boston, a vice-president of the United States Golf Association, whose view was that Bentley should have claimed the hole before play began on the next one.

The rules of golf specifically state that the penalty for a breach of the rule ordering alternate play shall be the loss of the hole. The consensus here is that as referee Pierce, who saw the breach committed, immediately should have given the hole to the British.

W P A TRACK MEET FOR BOYS TOMORROW
AT ROOSEVELT FIELD

For the first time in the history of community work, a track meet sponsored by the W P A will be held, with athletes representing 14 out of the 18 counties, when the boys compete tomorrow at Roosevelt Field.

Entries numbering 127 have been received for the junior and senior divisions. In the 50-yard dash of the junior division 30 boys will compete, and it will be necessary to run off six heats of five boys each. In the 70-yard dash in the junior event 26 athletes will struggle for leading honors.

The fled events also have drawn a large entry in the juniors, more than 30 boys being down on the program to compete in the high jump, broad jump and shotput. The meet will start promptly at 1:30 p. m.

Red Sox Signs Petruskin.
BOSTON, June 3.—The Boston American League baseball club today announced the signing of Alex Petruskin, 21, left-handed outfielder of the University of Southern California. The club said Petruskin had been put on option to the Little Rock (Ark.) team of the Southern League, with instructions to report today.

The Chopping Bowl.

Henry Armstrong is no bargain anywhere, but in taking him on in the Long Island Bowl, Barney Ross went to the bat with two strikes on him. Fighting in the Bowl is tantamount to going in the doghouse as far as champions are concerned.

In that Long Island Bowl the champions find That he who enters there leaves hope behind.

For it's a sad and melancholy fact Not one emerges with his crown intact. For challengers the Bowl may be the berries, But for the champs it's not a bowl of cherries.

Still Tough Enough.
However, Lou Ambers will not have to face the Bowl hazard when he meets Hammering Hank, July 26, as the battle, will be staged in either the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds.

As Hurtful Henry will come in at his favorite fighting weight of about 133 pounds, Lou's chances of keeping Henry from adding his crown to his collection are not particularly bright.

When one becomes a "collection" addict it's hard to stop him. Some go in for old masters, some for pewter, some for period furniture.

others for canes, pipes, pottery, stick pins, old bottles or what have you. Henry's hobby is crowns and his mounting ambition knows no bounds.

Jumping from the featherweight to the welterweight division and then working back to the light-weights indicates that Henry is one of those guys who work both ends against the middle.

On July 13 John Henry Lewis, light-heavyweight champion, will take on "Two-Ton" Tony Galento in Philadelphia at the Municipal Stadium. John Henry thinks he can go around Tony like a cooper around a bear barrel.

John Henry's title will not be involved as "Two-Ton" Tony would be hard pushed to make the light-heavyweight limit. Tony is by way of being a heavy-heavyweight.

Ford Frick, who guides the destinies of the National League, made a survey of the roof out at Sportsman's Park Wednesday afternoon but didn't do anything about the cellar. He said any complaints about conditions in the basement would have to be taken care of by Mr. Harridge of the American League, as the Cards hadn't been inside the place since 1913.

See where Ray Harrell started, finished and won a ball game for the Cards. Looks like first division.

Judge Landis climbed into a uniform down in Louisville the other day and gave an exhibition of hurling that the Colonels said was anything but Class AA and turned him back without further ado. It is reported that the Judge will take the matter up with himself to determine whether he got a square deal or not.

"Harvard Won't Behire Ousted Professor."

As there is no Judge Landis to make 'em do it, it looks tough for the Profs.

LEWIS TO MEET HARRY THOMAS HERE JUNE 17

Harry Thomas, Eagle Bend, Minn., heavyweight, last night was signed by Matchmaker Larry Atkins to meet John Henry Lewis, light-heavyweight champion, in the feature match on the St. Louis American Legion Post, No. 4, boxing card Friday night, June 17, at the Municipal Auditorium.

Thomas will be fighting here for the second time. He kayaked Billy Jones, Philadelphia Negro, after landing but two punches in the first round in their match here last fall.

Thomas, a protege of Nate Lewis, engaged in two important bouts during the past year. He fought both Champion Joe Louis and Chas. Langer Max Schmeling. He lasted five rounds with the Negro titleholder and was stopped in nine rounds by the German.

Lewis will be participating in his eleventh match in St. Louis, including two battles with Bob Olin. He defeated Olin here two years ago last fall and in a return match with Bob a year later he stopped the ex-New York bond broker.

The 175-pound king also has knocked out Al Stillman, Tony Shuoco, Reddy Barry, Marty Gallagher and Laddo Gastanaga, and has outpointed Eddie and Frankie Simms, Emilio Martinez and George Nichols.

Coliseum Mat Card Tonight
Ernie Dusek of Nebraska and Chief Little Beaver, a Cherokee Indian, will top the wrestling show tonight at the Coliseum under the promotion of Bill Schwabe.

Floyd Marshall, a 235-pounder from Phoenix, Ariz., and Warren Bookwinkle, St. Louis, will tangle in the secondary attraction. Both matches are one fall to a finish.

Silent Rattan, Indianapolis (Ind.) deaf mute, meets Herb Lowery of St. Louis; Ray Eckert, St. Louis, wrestles Pete Baitram, Memphis, Tenn., and Joe Schrick faces Walter McMillen, both of St. Louis, in other matches, half hour time limit.

Clayton Tourney Opens Tomorrow
The entry list for the Clayton open tennis championship will close at 4 p. m. today according to Russell C. Madden, tournament chairman.

Nearly all of the top-ranking district men players will compete in this year's tournament which will be played on the new courts in the Charles A. Shaw Park on Brentwood boulevard. Ray Wieser, former Washington University player, will defend his title in the singles.

First-round matches in the men's singles will start at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon followed by the opening round in the doubles on Sunday.

Banquet for Major.
Jim Major, Normandy's genial coach, was honored by a banquet given last night at Hotel York. Major has been at the high school since 1930. Chief speaker was Mayor Matt Fogarty of University City.

Miss Marble Is Semi-Final Victor
WETBRIDGE, England, June 3.—Alice Marble, former American titleholder, and Mrs. Helne Miller of South Africa won their semifinal round matches in the St. George's Hill tennis tournament today.

With all her shots under control, Miss Marble easily whipped Jadwiga Jedzejowska of Poland, 6-2, 6-3. Mrs. Miller engineered a big surprise by eliminating Ruth Mary Hardwick of England, 6-4, 7-6. Miss Hardwick had put out Helen Willis Moody in the quarterfinals yesterday.

Miss Marble also paired with Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Boston to gain the finals of the women's doubles. They defeated Mrs. Miller and Miss M. Morpew of South Africa, 6-3, 6-1.

Wray's Column

The Big Shots Next.
LESS than three weeks from tonight the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling "battle of the century" will take place (weather permitting) under unusual promotion and training conditions. Neither the box office nor the fighters will have had a month's preliminary buildup.

The promotional ballyhoo usually lasts two months and fighters have been known to require even longer for getting in shape. When Jim Jeffries tried to come back in 1910 he needed almost a year for preliminary and intensive preparation.

This time the promotional publicity on the Louis-Schmeling battle was styled by the Armstrong-Ross affair and suffered still another setback by the postponement of the welterweight contest. Promoter Mike Jacobs thinks all will be well with the big fight, because of the astonishing advance reservation, which was heavy even before tickets were actually on sale. The goal of $1,000,000 is still real, Uncle Mike insists.

Reservations from 39 states, not to mention Canada, Mexico and several European countries, already have been received.

Not in the annals of boxing has the request for working press reservations equaled the demand for the coming heavyweight championship. Betting on the event has been tentative, with a surprising number of authorities here believing that Louis' youth and improvement will offset the psychological advantages Schmeling naturally would enjoy, due to his previous knockout victory.

AS FOR THE FIGHTERS, they will not need as much tuning up as usual. Recent battles have kept the men in fair shape and only the finishing touches are needed to put both in condition for a hard test.

Three weeks ought to be enough to restore them to tip-top condition.

You can take it as a fact that unless some accident intervenes, these outstanding heavies will have no slight to make on the score of bad condition.

And here's another bet—Louis will be in the best fighting shape of his career. It has been said in explanation of his amazing failure in the first meeting of this pair that he took the match lightly and went into the ring not at his best.

We have always found this hard to believe, after watching Louis stand up and take it for 12 rounds. But at least the coming fight will leave no such loophole for Joe to crawl through.

Positive About Max.
WHEN ASKED recently by this writer about the heavyweight championship bout, there was no hesitation about Jack Dempsey's reply.

"Schmeling will whip Louis again," he said. "The Negro boy hits hard, but Max does too, and he'll land the damaging punch first."

"Don't let age influence you about this fight. Max takes great care of himself. He will be in as good or better shape than Louis. He knows how it takes to beat Louis. He knows how to hit him. If he gets a few early punches from Joe he can take them and he's game. He fights with a plan."

BUDGE LIKELY TO WIN EASILY IN FRENCH PLAY

By the Associated Press.
AUTEUIL, France, June 3.—Everything was ready for the appearance and conquering march of Don Budge in the French hard court tennis championships today, even to the elimination of two of the players who might have caused the Californian some trouble.

Yvon Petra and Pierre Pelizza, French Davis Cup team players, were eliminated in the first round yesterday. Pelizza bowed to Owen Anderson, of Hollywood, Cal., 2-6, 3-6, 5-7, while Petra lost to Casimir Sychalaka, a little-known Polish player, 4-6, 7-9, 7-8.

Budge, who holds the Wimbledon, United States and Australian championships, is seeking a grand slam of the courts. If he wins this tournament he will have captured the four major crowns in a year's time. He is a top-heavy favorite.

Henner Henkel of Germany, who won last year, has withdrawn and so had H. W. (Bunny) Austin of England, leaving little opposition for the red-head.

D. Lawrence Nelson of Los Angeles went into the third round yesterday on a default by Leo M. George of France, while another Californian, William Robertson of San Marino, was eliminated in a five-set first-round match by R. E. Mulliken of Great Britain, 1-6, 6-2, 6-4, 5-7, 3-6.

Here—take back that buck. I'll lay you 80 to 10! "And he did. And he paid, too, when Schmeling stopped Louis."

COMMUNISTS DENY AIMS ARE VIOLENT

Party Assails Massachusetts Commission's Report as Red-Baiting.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, June 2.—Denouncing a special Massachusetts commission which investigated "subversive" activities for "its reckless red-baiting in the service of reaction," the Communist party challenged the commission and the sinister forces behind it last night to prove its charge that the party was a "conspirative group advocating force and violence."
The commission reported Wednesday to the Legislature that the Communist party sought to control transport and labor "so that it could paralyze the country in the event of war," and charged the party's prime objective was to "eventually rouse to a militant or revolutionary mood organized labor and the unemployed."
In a joint statement, Otis A. Hood, State chairman, and Phil Frankford, State secretary of the Communist party of Massachusetts, attacked the commission's report as a "menace to the democratic institutions of the people."
Commission Makes Charges.
The commission, in a 2500-page report of its nine months' inquiry, asserted the Communists controlled the National Maritime Union and occupied strategic positions in the Committee for Industrial Organization "through which they dominate and control the groups of which they are a part."
"This classic of political paranoia," retorted Hood and Frankford, "attacks every progressive movement of labor and the people which has developed during the past two years."
"This is more than a reckless attempt to carry on red-baiting with the inventiveness of Baron Munchausen. Hitler, Mussolini and Fritz Kuhn will be proud of the work of these Munchausens in the service of reaction."
"It cost the people of Massachusetts $5000 thus far to have the commission give a clean bill of health to Nazi and Fascist conspirators in our commonwealth."
But, they charged, "how could it be otherwise with an 'investigation' organized by big-business reactionaries and having as its main aim to drag the red herring over the trail of the whole trade union movement, all New Deal progressive movements, and the growing Democratic front which is destined to oust Republican and the (Gov. Charles F.) Hurley Democrats from their positions of power and privileges?"
The statement came as the Massachusetts Legislature dumped into the lap of its Legal Affairs Committee a sheath of proposals for new laws offered by the commission and designed to counteract the so-called subversive activities.

Shannon, a power in Democratic politics in Kansas City for years, is completing his fourth term as Representative from the Fifth District.

ANTI-FIREWORKS BILL AFTER JULY 5, URGED

Safety Council in Letter Suggests Changes to Protect Dealers.

Approval of the pending bill prohibiting the sale or use of any fireworks in St. Louis except at approved public exhibitions, with a provision that it become effective July 5, was urged by the St. Louis Safety Council today in a letter to Alderman Hubert A. Hoefflinger, chairman of the Public Safety Committee, which is considering the proposed fireworks ordinance.

The letter, signed by Reuben Hoffmann, secretary-manager, expressed the opinion that merchants who have bought fireworks stocks for this year's Independence day should not be penalized by making the ordinance effective before that date.

"The thing to do now is to pass Board Bill No. 25, amended so that it does not become effective until July 5, 1938," the letter said. "This will give fireworks dealers a chance to dispose of their stock and give them 94 days' advance notice that fireworks in St. Louis henceforth will be taboo."

The bill, introduced by Alderman William J. Warnick, would prohibit the sale of all fireworks, including small firecrackers and sparklers.

The other measure, Board Bill No. 22, introduced by Alderman John P. Cullinane, makes numerous exceptions, the Safety Council's letter points out, and forbids nothing not now prohibited by existing ordinances.

Urging restriction of the use of fireworks to community celebrations, with pyrotechnic displays under supervision of experts, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness today called attention to St. Louis' record for fireworks accidents last July Fourth "as the worst among principal cities of the United States."

The record was based on figures published in the Journal of the American Medical Association showing that St. Louis, with 522 accidents, had a rate of 39.17 for each 100,000 of population. The second highest rate was that of Philadelphia with 10.90. In Los Angeles the rate was but 3.63 and in Detroit, 3.95.

At the office of Grove Laboratories, Inc., it was said, the company would make no statement.

U. S. JUDGE DISQUALIFIES SELF ON BARRING OF WILFRED JONES

George H. Moore Declines to Rule on Motion to Drop Name From List of Attorneys.

United States District Judge George H. Moore disqualified himself yesterday to rule on the motion of District Attorney Harry C. Blanton that the name of Wilfred Jones, disbarred lawyer, be stricken from the list of attorneys eligible to practice in Federal courts and transferred the hearing to the court of Judge John Caskie Collet.

Disqualification was on motion of Jones, whom Judge Moore sentenced to 10 years in prison in December, 1936, for mail fraud in the Munich baby hoax.

In a conference in Judge Moore's chambers yesterday afternoon, Jones successfully contended that Judge Moore should disqualify himself from ruling on the disbarment motion.

Jones, whose appeal has been denied, has been in jail since he was sentenced, and is now preparing a petition for review of his conviction by the United States Supreme Court.

SHARP DIFFERENCE IN CONFERENCE ON WAGE-HOUR BILLDisagreement Reported on How Ultimate 40 Cents an Hour and 40-Hour
Week Should Come.CHAIRMAN THOMAS ASKS FOR TIMESays Committee Must Have Chance to Simplify Law Adjournment May Be Delayed.WASHINGTON, June 3.—Sharp differences of opinion over wage and hour standards developed today among members of a joint congressional committee; pointing to delay in final agreement on the legislation.Although most committeemen appeared inclined to accept 25 cents an hour as the rock-bottom minimum wage, there was disagreement over how the ultimate goal of 40 cents an hour and a 40-hour week should be reached.House conferees were reported standing by their measure, which would fix nationally-uniform standards from which no industries in interstate commerce could be exempted.Warning of Politics.
A warning that this might make the wage-hour bill a political issue, with candidates vying with one another in promising higher wage minima, was said to have been given to the committee by Senator Ellender (Dem.), Louisiana.Ellender was reported to have suggested that a form of "collective bargaining" be adopted, in which employers and employees would be tempted to agree on a minimum wage.
Final adjustment would be made by a Government agency on the basis of information brought out during the bargaining.While this would retain the 25-cents-an-hour minimum, said to have been suggested by Senator Rohr (Rep.), Idaho, wages above that figure would vary according to individual cases. This was described as acceptable to Southern states who have fought the application of rigid standards.

Thomas Asks for Time.

Senator Thomas (Dem.), Utah, chairman of the conferees, indicated the committee intended to draft a simplified bill, if possible.
Thomas declared the committee must have time to go into the matter thoroughly. This led to a general belief adjournment might be delayed beyond June 11, the date on which administration leaders hope to quit."I think that when Congress can take two years to pass on wage-hour legislation, the Conference Committee is justified in taking time enough to do its work well," Thomas said. "If we had a failure with this bill, it would set labor back years."LABOR AND SOCIALIST PARTY UNION IN NEW YORK STATEVirtual Agreement to Work Together Reached After Six Months of Negotiations.NEW YORK, June 3.—Six months of negotiations were climaxed with virtual assurance today that the Socialist and American Labor parties would join forces in New York State. Their membership and the administrative committee of the Labor unit must approve the plan but this action was regarded as almost a foregone conclusion.Under the tentative agreement, the Socialist party would make no nominations for State or municipal offices or would nominate Labor party candidates. The Socialists would retain the right to make nominations for the presidency and vice-presidency should the Laborite candidates be unacceptable to them.Norman Thomas, three times Socialist candidate for President, and Dr. Harry W. Laidler, State chairman, emphasized that their party would retain its national identity and would nominate a presidential candidate in 1940 "unless by that time a real Farmer-Labor party developed."The Socialist party polled 96,233 votes for Governor in 1936, and the American Labor party 262,192 in the same election.Pulaski Memorial Bill Signed.
WASHINGTON, June 3.—President Roosevelt signed yesterday a bill authorizing him to proclaim Oct. 31 Gen. Pulaski's Memorial day. Pulaski is the Revolutionary war hero who came from Poland to fight for the colonies and died from wounds suffered at the siege of Savannah, Ga.Germany Makes Sharp Protest Against Czechoslovak IncidentsSeizure of Swastika and Beating of Nazi Follower Cited—Henlein Accused of Treason, But Prosecution Seems Unlikely.

By the Associated Press.

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, June 3.— Ernst Henlein, German Minister to Czechoslovakia, protested sharply today to the Czech Foreign Office against fresh incidents in which members of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten German minority were said to have been ill-treated.The German Minister's representations were directed at the seizure of a swastika, Nazi emblem, from a Sudeten German pair named Exner at Niederhollersdorf Sunday by Czechoslovak soldiers, and at the alleged ill-treatment of another German named Joseph Schneck.Germans said Schneck was kicked by Czechoslovak soldiers at Machrisch-Schoenberg because he was wearing Sudeten German party insignia.

The Czechoslovak Government said it had no intention of making a martyr of Konrad Henlein and that charges of high treason against the Sudeten German party leader probably would be ignored.

Vlastislav Kilma, Czech National Union party member of Parliament, lodged with the State's Attorney yesterday a charge of high treason against Henlein.The charge was based on an account of an interview with Henlein
by Ward Price, London Daily Mail correspondent, in which Henlein was quoted as declaring the German-Czechoslovak crisis might lead to ruinous war unless it were settled satisfactorily.In high circles the charge was regarded as "election propaganda" on the part of Kilma's party.
The chances were described as
"99 per cent against prosecution."ARMY TRIES OUT
MOTOR-TRICYCLES
AS CAVALRY ARMMachine Can Carry Three Soldiers and Weapons Up Rough 40 Pct. Slope.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The army may supplement the Cavalry's horses with motor-driven tricycles which can carry three soldiers with their weapons up a rough 40 per cent slope.Tests already made have convinced the army's Field Artillery Board that the vehicles could negotiate rough country, but because of mechanical breakdowns, improvements must be made before the machines are adopted.The United States lags behind Germany and Italy in putting both the motorcycle and bicycle to military use, Field Artillery and Infantry officers reported yesterday in the semi-official Infantry Journal. A writer identified only as Capt. Wheeler disclosed the tests with the motor-tricycle.Tests also have been made at Fort Benning, Ga., of a four-wheel, low-swing, cross-country car designed to carry a machine gun over rough terrain.Capt. C. E. Eddleman, an Infantry student at the Command and General Staff School, expressed belief the army should give a further trial to bicycles such as American troops used experimentally 20 years ago.DIRECTOR NAMED BY G. O. P.
FOR AUDIT OF NEW DEALDr. Thomas H. Reed Selected to Gather Material for Program Committee.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Dr. Glenn Frank, chairman of the Republican Program Committee, announced yesterday the appointment of Dr.
Thomas H. Reed of New York as director of studies to be made for the committee's audit of New Deal policies.Dr. Reed was given leave of absence from his duties as director of consultant service for the National Municipal League to deliver into current affairs for material on which the Program Committee would base its evaluation of the Roosevelt administration and propose a course of party policy."We will seek to obtain criticism of New Deal policies from competent authorities in all phases of political and economic life," Dr.
Reed said. "We want an objective appraisal as free as possible from bias. When we have assembled the facts and analyzed the good and bad points, we will then determine what course to follow."Dr. Reed will be assisted in his research by his wife, Doris Darm-stadler, secretary of the Committee on Political Education of the American Science Association.AMERICAN MISSION TAKEN OVER BY JAPANESE AT HUCHOWSouthern Methodist Quarters Virtually Converted Into Fortress Against Guerrillas.SHANGHAI, June 3.—Dr. Fred
P. Manget, medical missionary, of Newman, Ga., reported to the United States Consulate-General today that Japanese troops had occupied the Southern Methodist Mission at Huchow, 40 miles north of Hang-chow.Dr. Manget has just arrived at Huchow after a dangerous trip with six Chinese male doctors and nurses through guerrilla-infested country from Hangchow.He reported the church was damaged by fire and was being used as a crematory for Japanese soldiers, while the mission virtually had been converted into a fortress to repel guerrilla attacks. Artillery had been placed within the compound, he said, and holes cut through the hospital walls were fired with machine guns.NEW CLASH IN PERU'S ROW WITH ECUADORTwo of Latter's Soldiers Reported Killed by Gunboat Fire in Disputed Territory.

By the Associated Press.

QUITO, Ecuador, June 3.—Ecuador's frontier army looked to its defenses today in the wake of a new incident of violence in the nation's 107-year-old territorial dispute with Peru.Two Ecuadorian soldiers were reported killed and a lieutenant wounded yesterday in a clash with three Peruvian gunboats, along the River Aguari in the northeastern portion of a vast jungle claimed by both nations.The Ministry of Defense at once ordered troops to refrain from an aggressive action, but to be ready to defend themselves.It was asserted reliably that Peruvian troops were concentrating at Tumbes, near the frontier and close to the Ecuadorian Pacific coast.The Defense Ministry order charged that Peru, once the center of Spanish power in South America, was "trampling on Ecuador in an unjustifiable way.""In no case permit any aggression by our troops, but if they are attacked they must defend themselves with all their characteristic valor."There was considerable tension here, and the Cabinet met three times yesterday. There were no official reports the Ecuadorian Minister to Peru had been instructed to demand an explanation.A representative of the United States Legation and the Peruvian Ministry were among those con-fering at the Foreign Office.
Ecuador and Peru have been at odds over sovereignty over a vast area of jungle, approximately the size of New York State, since Ecuador established its independence in 1821.The territory, sweeping eastward from the Pacific Andes into the continent, is inhabited chiefly by Indians. There are no roads and few white men have penetrated the thick forests.Peruvian Says There Seems to Be No Danger of Serious Outbreak.
By the Associated Press.
LIMA, Peru, June 3.—A high Government source declared today there "seems to be no danger of a serious outbreak between Ecuador and Peru as a result of the Napo River incident."The Peruvian Foreign Office declined its ships or military forces had attacked the inhabitants or garrison of Rocafuerte, disputing Ecuadorian version of the dispute. It said the events occurred in the Napo River region, where Peru and Ecuador both exercise sovereignty.

MONTREAL'S OLDEST PAPER

Gazette Celebrates 100th Anniversary With Special Edition.MONTREAL, June 3.—(Canadian Press.) The Gazette, Montreal's first newspaper, celebrated its 100th birthday today. A special edition reviewed the paper's history from the time of its founding, June 3, 1778, by Fleury Mesplet. He started the publication as the weekly "Gazette du Commerce et des Lettres pour La Ville et District de Montreal."
It became a semi-weekly in 1829 and a daily in 1833.Today's edition said the newspaper grew out of a plan by Benjamin Franklin for a medium to win support of the Canadian French for the American Revolution. The Gazette said Franklin abandoned the idea, but Mesplet, his printer, took it up.John McCormack's Mother Dies.

LINKS IT TO FIGHTState Health Commissioner Wrote Kansas City Man of Appreciation of His Services.By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.JEFFERSON CITY, June 3.— Dismissal of Frank L. Barnes of Kansas City as bookkeeper and acting supervisor of the Pure Food and Drug Division of the State Board of Health, at the instance of Gov.
Stark, was disclosed last night by the local headquarters of Circuit Judge James V. Billings, Pendergast-supported Supreme Judge candidate, with an assertion it was another move in the political war between Stark and the Kansas City Democratic boss.The Billings headquarters made public a letter written to Barnes on Wednesday by Dr. Harry F.
Parker, State Health Commissioner, notifying Barnes he was being dismissed, effective June 15, at the request of Gov. Stark.No reason for the dismissal was given, but Dr. Parker, in his letter, expressed "appreciation of your service during the time we have been associated together in this department." Barnes conducted the affairs of the Pure Food and Drug Division, under the general supervision of Dr. Parker.Barnes, who was induced for appointment by Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City, and who has been in the department since 1935, said he knew of no reason for his removal except that he was from Kansas City.Barnes, a former president of the Kansas City Retail Druggists' Association, said:
"I have received no complaints from anyone about my work. On account of Dr. Parker I felt kindly toward the Douglas candidacy but had never definitely told anyone my position.""Two State employees had advised me that if I wanted to hold my job I had better become active for Douglas and let the administration know of it."Several department heads have been ousted since the Governor and Pendergast declared political war.
The fight is centered on the race between Judge Billings, of Kennett, and Supreme Judge James M. Douglas of St. Louis, for the Democratic nomination for a short term of six years in Division No. 1 of the Supreme Court.Judge Douglas, the incumbent, was appointed by Gov. Stark to fill a vacancy and has the full support of Stark for nomination to succeed himself. Pendergast is actively supporting Billings.Outsiders Disclosed by Protesters.
The purge of the administration rolls of some of the Pendergast-indorsed appointees began several weeks ago with the removal of Thomas F. Fitzgerald of Kansas City, an active Pendergast worker, as State Liquor Control Supervisor.
Since then about a dozen minor appointees with Kansas City affiliations have been dropped, with the official explanation each time that the changes had no political meaning.Few of the changes have been announced through the executive office, although the Governor passes upon most of the appointments. The removals have been disclosed in most instances through protests by the ousted individuals.No Comment by Stark; Dr. Parker Calls It Routine.Gov. Stark, in St. Louis today, refused to comment on the removal of Barnes. Dr. Parker, also in St.
Louis, said the dismissal was at the Governor's request and that he understood it was a "matter of routine." He said he had no other comment.New Northwest Territory Stamp.

MEXICAN RAILWAY DEMANDS

Businessmen Say Union's Rate Proposal Would Close 953 Mines.MEXICO, D. F., June 3.—The Government faced new difficulties today in the notice served by the union-operated railways that industries must accept freight rate increases ranging up to 100 per cent or subscribe to a $10,000,000 loan to put the system on a sound basis.The railways were nationalized and turned over to the unions to operate May 1. Business organizations said the proposal was "impossible" and would force most of the country's 953 small, independent mines to close.Francis Edward Powell Dies.

LONDON, June 3.—The Chamberlain Government won its second successive by-election today when one of its Conservative supporters was elected to the House of Commons from the West Derbyshire constituency.A trend of voters to Labor leadership following Anthony Eden's resignation as Foreign Minister
Feb. 20 appears to have been halted.
Henry Hunkle, Conservative, re-ceived 16,740 votes, according to a tabulation of yesterday's balloting, and retained for the Government a seat which has been traditionally Conservative.The Labor candidate, C. F. White, received 11,250 votes and the Liberal, Milner Gray, 655.The by-election was necessitated by succession of the Marquess of Hartington to the Dukedom of Devonshire on the death of his father.The Government's previous by-election victory came May 20 in the Aylesbury constituency by a margin of nearly 11,000 votes.Flood Control Bill Approved.
WASHINGTON, June 3.—The

non-military activities of the War Department last night. It approved a compromise version which had been accepted earlier in the day by the House.The measure, which now goes to the White House, would make $320,987,867 available for flood control, river

COMPANIES, SAME
STOCKHOLDERSStill "Almost Identical," Says Government of Canadian Ltd., and the U. S. Concern.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Walter L.
Rice, special counsel for the Gov-
third day to outline the Government's Sherman anti-trust law case against the Aluminum Co. of America, Aluminum Ltd., of Canada, and 59 other defendants, to Judge Francis G. Caffrey, who is hearing the case without a jury.Rice said that in 1928, when the Aluminum company was organized, the stockholders of the Canadian and American companies were identical and today are "almost identical.""There never were interlocking officers or interlocking directors," Rice said. "That would have been too open, but in 1928 the stockholders of the two companies were identical and today they are almost identical. Arthur V. Davis, chairman of the Aluminum Co. of America, is the brother of Edward
K. Davis, president of Aluminum Ltd.""The Government has no evidence that Aluminum Co. of America and Aluminum Ltd., entered into a written contract. That was not to be expected. But Aluminum's natural market is the United States, and it has only one customer in the United States—Aluminum Co. of America."Rice said that the cost producing alumina and aluminum in Canada is so much lower than in the United States that Aluminum Ltd., was able to pay the duty and turn its product over to the Aluminum Co.
of America at prices to insure a profit to that corporation."During the 12 months prior to October 1929," Rice said, "Aluminum Ltd., sold 10,000,000 pounds of aluminum to Aluminum Company of America."

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of the people, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely passing laws; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Thinks Hitler Overrated.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MORE and more it develops that Hitler is the most overrated among figures in the news.

Let's analyze it. Whom did he overpower? The handful of Jews in Germany? It must have taken a great deal of courage for 60,000,000 people to starve out half a million!

Occupied the Rhineland? Surely he did, but England and France let him have it. It seems they weren't quite wised up to his colossal bluffing ability at that time.

Occupied Austria? That's right; and they let him have that, too. So the glory score is zero so far.

Next, all full of his extraordinary self-worship and ego, his tongue was dipping to lap up Czechoslovakia, after the Europe-splitting deal with Mussolini. But (and here is where our little man, who kept making fists at everybody, saw the other fellow step up to fight) what happened?

Nothing, except that the little man, who always made those fists at everybody, grabbed up his tools and toys and ran. Any time the European democratic Powers want to put Hitler away they can do it, and it won't start any world war, either. All that would be necessary is for them to want to, particularly England. He has absolutely "nothing on the ball," and even if they give him another five years to prepare for war, it won't make any difference, because there won't be any.

The Jesuits Return to Spain.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN the Register of May 29, 1938, I have read that the Jesuits were returning to Nationalist Spain to resume both their religious life and the management of the property that was taken away from them by the Leftist, or, as you prefer, the democratic Government.

To the writer, this return of clerical freedom, or religious liberty, is one of the high tenets of a real democracy. It is in healthy contrast to the class warfare that compelled these clerics and many others to do the disappearing act as a result of the political philosophy so attractively tinted in vermilion.

J. J. B.

For a Pershing Portrait.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THERE are compelling reasons why St. Louisans ought to provide without delay the $5000 necessary to obtain the portrait of Gen. Pershing which is sought for the new Soldiers' Memorial.

There are portraits and portraits of Gen. Pershing, but none, it is believed, painted from life. Sponsors of the portrait proposed for the memorial have prevailed on him to pose for a distinguished Missouri-born artist, Leopold Seyffert.

In urging the need for prompt completion of the fund, there is not alone the consideration that the largest city of Gen. Pershing's home State ought not to honor him in grudging fashion. Gen. E. J. Spencer, fellow-student of Gen. Pershing at West Point, former commander of Missouri's National Guard, and chairman of the citizens' committee which supervised construction of the memorial, reminds us of Gen. Pershing's recent illness and advanced age.

A generous response should make easy and gratifying Gen. Spencer's effort to obtain the money needed.

Invitation to Business Men.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

REFERRING to the threat of the Mayor of St. Louis to impose a payroll tax on non-residents employed in St. Louis:

Why should not you business men give serious consideration to moving your places of business from the city into the county and thus escape the smoke and filth and the extravagance and inefficiency of the present city administration? Taxes would be less, and many other expenses reduced accordingly.

UNIVERSITY CITY.

Barney's Statesmanship Blooms.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

EVER since the first election of Mayor Dickmann I have been watching and waiting for some sign of the broad statesmanship and business acumen I had been told he possessed to a superlative degree. Now, at long last, it has budded into full bloom: He has found a new way to tax the wage-earner and save his particular class (real estate dealers and owners). When a politician can find a new way to tax the poor, he must be a statesman. The average politician can only figure up ways to increase old taxes. Hurrah for Barney! He will probably go far, but I really hope to meet him on his way coming back. "SUBUBUS."

Fable.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A BUNCH of fellows were at the bottom of a well. Six were four feet tall, some five, some six and there was one fellow over eight feet. All the little fellows were jealous of the tall one and wanted him drowned. As the water rose around their own necks, they yelled to those at the top: "Four in a lot more. You haven't got that big guy yet!" The four-foot fellows, of course, are the fellows on relief. They're sunk already. I am about four-and-a-half and the water is up to my chin. I'll be gone long before the New Dealers have drowned the real tall boys.

SINKING.

THE COURT TERM IN RETROSPECT.

It is an impressive set of statistics which has come with the completion of the Supreme Court's 1937-38 sitting, known officially as the October, 1937, term.

In the first place, there is the record of the amount of work performed. The number of cases disposed of ran to 1012, as compared with 943 in the 1936 term and 990 in the 1935 term. But not only has the Supreme Court disposed of more cases, in this term than in either of the two preceding terms. It has done so under circumstances which were bound to handicap its orderly internal procedure.

For the first time since 1932—when Justice Cardozo, thoroughly skilled in judicial craftsmanship as Chief Justice of the New York Court of Appeals, succeeded to the seat of Justice Holmes—there were changes in the personnel of the court. Justice Van Devanter, dean in years of service and a valued member of the Saturday afternoon conferences, retired before the start of the term, and to fill the vacancy Justice Black, with only police court judicial experience, was appointed. Midway through the term, Justice Sutherland, with 15 years of able service, retired, and to his seat Justice Reed, then Solicitor General, but without experience on the bench, was named. And during most of the term, Justice Cardozo, who led all his colleagues in the number of opinions written from 1933 through June, 1937, was forced by illness to absent himself.

This accomplishment of the court, in keeping up under these circumstances, is in itself a tribute to the managerial genius and personal industry of Chief Justice Hughes. It also demonstrates anew how utterly without foundation was the argument that the Supreme Court needed to be enlarged so that it might stay abreast of its work.

Justice McReynolds	—	—	—	38	dissents
Justice Butler	—	—	—	21	dissents
Justice Black	—	—	—	16	dissents
Justice Stone	—	—	—	9	dissents
Justice Cardozo	—	—	—	4	dissents
Justice Roberts	—	—	—	3	dissents
Justice Brandeis	—	—	—	2	dissents
Justice Reed	—	—	—	2	dissents
Chief Justice Hughes	—	—	—	0	dissents

What this table means is that the differences within the court, until recently sharply defined by occasional 5-to-4 divisions in important cases, have been to a large extent composed. There are now two extremes, but the two extremes together account for only three Justices—on the right, Justices McReynolds and Butler, all who remain of the one-time majority, and on the left, Justice Black, who has exhibited impatience with traditional methods and has used dissenting opinions to express his unconventional, not to say bold, beliefs about law and economics and the relation of the Supreme Court to both.

Between these two extremes is a closely harmonized majority of six members whose dissents taken together total only 17—11 fewer than those turned in by Justice McReynolds alone. Indeed, as the table shows, the dissents since last October have been such that Chief Justice Hughes has not found a single occasion on which to dissent. Inasmuch as he has dissented in earlier terms in notable instances, among them in the New York minimum wage and Railroad Retirement Act cases, this record of the head of the court is eloquent testimony to the fairness and soundness of the work of the court in its 1937 term.

The important business of the term has been transacted so recently that an extended review is unnecessary. There were no cases of the headline importance of those involving, say, the N. R. A. and the Wagner Act, and yet among the 180 cases in which decisions were written are rulings certain to have a far-reaching influence on the course of American law and the practice of government. Outstanding are those which show the court willing to re-examine old doctrines and principles in the light of new information and experience.

Justice Brandeis' frank first sentence in Erie Railroad Co. vs. Tompkins indicates how far that willingness has developed. No preliminary discussion of the present facts, no introductory statement of precedents. Instead, at the outset, the unhesitating announcement of the real issue: "The question for decision is whether the old-challenged doctrine of Swift vs. Tyson (1842) shall now be disapproved." The answer, it will be recalled, was "Yes," and as a result the Supreme Court has accorded the states the right to establish local law as controlling in their own courts and in Federal courts exercising jurisdiction by virtue of diversity of citizenship. In the Erie decision the Supreme Court repudiated almost a century of its precedents.

This willingness to review its own work was not confined to matters of procedure. In a series of decisions greatly extending the area of taxable income, the court appeared virtually to invite Congress to present a "simple statute" providing for the reciprocal taxing by the state and Federal governments of incomes heretofore tax-exempt. The rulings in the Wyoming public lands case and the New York Port Authority cases—reversals of earlier decisions—went a long way toward removing, if they did not remove entirely, the judicial bar to a literal interpretation of the plain words, "from whatever source derived," of the sixteenth amendment.

In cases arising from the P. W. A.'s grant of funds for a power plant to compete with private industry, from the operation of the Public Utility Holding Co. and the new municipal bankruptcy acts, from the application of the penal provisions of the Home Owners' Loan Act, from the many rulings of the National Labor Relations Board, the Supreme Justices displayed their willingness to allow Congress wide discretion in the use of its constitutional powers. In decisions invalidating a municipal ordinance requiring a permit for the distribution of handbills and outlawing wire-tapping by Federal operatives, the court lived up to its finest traditions as a guardian of civil liberties.

One hundred and eighty decisions, 1012 cases handled, the substantial majority of the court united in its interpretation of the Constitution in cases intimately affecting the national life—a term, in short, among the most important in the court's 148 years.

HOW DID THEY GET THERE?

St. Louis city employees, each one a member of a ward political club, must have blinked with astonishment when they read of the New York effort to move municipal employees in from the suburbs, by taxing the salaries of those who persist in non-residence. "Hounding city employees out of the suburbs into the city," the Herald Tribune calls it.

But how did the city employees get into the suburbs in the first place? Here, a municipal job-holder hardly dares to stay overnight in Maplewood or Ferguson, and failure to vote early and to work at the precinct polling place would mean a new face in the Street Department or the Sanitarium laundry. Is it possible that, in the home town of Tammany Hall, political organizations are less exactly efficient?

SAVE THE FOOD AND DRUG BILL.

The death of 70-odd persons from "elitzir sulfanilamide" last winter has proved not enough to prevail upon the House of Representatives to pass a food and drug law which will properly protect the American people. The Senate several months ago passed and sent to the House a bill remedying some deficiencies in the existing Food and Drug Act. Day before yesterday, the House got around to acting on the bill, but approved with it a dangerous joker inserted in committee.

This Joker—Section 701F—provides a new type of judicial review which would render enforcement of the law virtually impossible. It would permit the offending manufacturer to shop around among all the 33 Federal District Courts of the country for a Judge who would issue an injunction against enforcement of the Food and Drug Administration's order. Even if the injunction were dissolved upon appeal to a higher court, the offender could seek a new hearing, with a new injunction, and thus extend the dilatory process indefinitely.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, in whose department the Food and Drug Administration is lodged, sought in vain to have the House Interstate Commerce Committee provide for judicial review to begin in an appellate court. Similar pleas by spokesmen for the American Medical Association and various consumer groups were equally ineffectual.

The bill now goes back to the Senate. Although the time is short, it is not too short for the bill to be saved by the right kind of conference committee. Unless the Joker is removed by a joint committee of the Senate and House, the bill should be scrapped entirely and the old law allowed to stand.

Responsible medical and pharmaceutical firms want a strong food and drug law. Must we always remain a nation of guinea pigs for the experiments of a minority who are interested only in quick profits from dangerous nostrums?

HOW MUCH LONGER?

How much longer can the country temporize with the problem of the railroads? It has just been reported by the Association of American Railroads that Class I operating income declined from $48,000,000 in April, 1937, to $9,000,000 in April of this year. The comparable figure for April, 1936, following the stock market crash of the autumn before, is $60,000,000. From $60,000,000 to $9,000,000 in eight years! And the decline is, with some interruptions, progressive.

In the same period, palliatives have been used in the form of rate increases and R. F. C. loans, and now it is suggested by the railroads that they institute a wage cut. But palliatives only forestall the day when the nation will have to face the problem courageously and work out a lasting solution. Meanwhile, one road after the other topples off into bankruptcy, until a third of the nation's mileage is involved.

Basically, what has happened is a transportation revolution. The internal combustion engine, motive power of truck, bus, airplane and private automobile, has cut deeply into the railroads' one-time monopoly of long-distance transportation. This has been going on for 20 years, yet no major move has been made to fit the railroads into the new scheme of things.

When it comes, it is going to be a painful process, but better the quick thrust of a surgical knife than the agonizing postponement of the inevitable.

PROGRESS OF THE "PURGE."

Old-age pension checks have been mailed this month to 72,442 persons, or 48 more than received them in May. There is supposed to be a purge in progress, by which "cheaters" and "chiselers" are to be removed from the rolls. This purge was ordered by Gov. Stark and has been going on since last year. Here are the figures:

Pensioners in December	—	—	—	75,385
January	—	—	—	76,161 (minus 204)
February	—	—	—	74,073 (minus 204)
March	—	—	—	72,568 (minus 1505)
April	—	—	—	72,517 (minus 251)
May	—	—	—	72,024 (plus 77)
June	—	—	—	72,442 (plus 28)

So, after a half-year of purging, there are only 3328 fewer persons on the rolls than when the purge began. This is, of course, a net figure. It is arrived at by deducting those removed and those who died and adding new pensioners and those who have been reinstated. And, in the past two months, instead of a net decrease, there has been a net increase.

Removal of undeserving persons from the old-age pension rolls is one of the main points in Gov. Stark's governmental program, but today there is still on the rolls approximately one person of every two over 70 in the State. It has become clear that the purge has thus far only touched the surface.

Republicans can remember the good old days when nobody cared a hoot whom the Democrats of Iowa nominated for any office.

POOR ADVERTISING.

Full-time employees of the State Highway Department are being shaken down to provide a campaign fund to put over a constitutional amendment sponsored by the Citizens' Road Association to raise the gasoline tax to 3 cents and provide for a 10-year road plan. The employees are being asked to contribute from 1 to 3% per cent of their monthly salaries, and, while the contributions are supposed to be voluntary, the history of such collections shows that the non-contributor risks the unkindness of his superiors, hence his job.

It is expected that $18,000 will be raised in this manner toward a fund in excess of $50,000, and, it is said, contributions are likely to be received from contractors, material dealers and others interested in the enlargement of the road program. In other words, the basis will be laid for favoritism in the granting of contracts when and if the road plan is approved.

We are open-minded as to the merits of the Citizens' Road Association program, and recently printed on this page the case for it, as presented by Hugh Stephens, former chairman of the association, and the case against it, as expressed by Roy Britton, head of the Automobile Club of Missouri. But to finance the campaign by levies upon Highway Department employees and by gifts from contractors and material men is a very poor way to advertise it to the voters.

Barkley of Kentucky and Neely of West Virginia are waging a brilliant battle for the title of best-dressed Senator. As for Illinois' James Hamilton Lewis, "frankly he is the ancient splendor."

TESTING THE OLD PADDY WAGON.

Has Japan Lost the War?

Japanese not only are failing in current effort to extend power in China, but may ultimately have to surrender even Korea and Formosa, says writer; Chinese take casualties calmly, confident that invader will finally be exhausted; they look forward to dictating a peace which will avoid mistakes of Allied Powers at Versailles.

Pearl Buck, Novelist and Chinese Resident for Many Years, in Redbook Magazine.

WESTERN observers in China are saying that, whether Japan knows it or not, she has lost the war with China.

By this summer the war will be a year old, and Japan is further from victory every day. China is immeasurably stronger now than ever, and more determined than ever to fight to the end that there will be not a single Japanese soldier on Chinese soil. China is preparing for a long struggle if necessary. She has munitions enough for two more years, and her finances are good for as long.

At first the Chinese were frightened; they knew they were not prepared, as the modern world counts preparation, for war, with a modern military force such as Japan had. And before Japan's first onslaught, the Chinese fell back in overwhelming defeat. Then something happened. In the first place, the Chinese, after desperately trying to get help from abroad with no success, realized the situation and accepted it. If one had to choose a single Chinese trait as the source of strength, it is this: the ability of the Chinese to adapt themselves to a situation. They looked around to see what was really happening and just how bad it was.

In the first place, people could escape bombs fairly well by digging dugouts. Whole towns were dugouts and went into them. Buildings were destroyed, but the Chinese have never put much stock in buildings. The homes of the average citizen can be put up almost overnight. Any building they consider, can be replaced; and the Chinese, not being in the least a sentimental race, do not greatly value one building over another. The essential thing is the land, and that the Japanese cannot destroy. They cannot even hold it in any large quantity. Stretched over the longest battle line in history, the Japanese are holding only railways and railway towns, and the Chinese peasants are quietly going back to their lands and planting them, living in makeshift shelter, ready to leave if they must.

When I mentioned something about people being killed, he said: "Famines and civil wars have taught us that nothing can really kill a people off if you keep on letting them be born."

It is characteristic that the common Chinese thumbs his nose at the planes above him, just before he goes underground; and that while he is in his dugout, he goes on with his business—eating, sleeping, casting up his accounts or playing mahjong.

He will tell you cheerfully this war has done a great deal for China. In the first place, it was perhaps the only thing which could have accomplished the political unification of China.

There has been another important benefit. It is the opening of her great interior to modern influences. Japan has been able to reach—and will be able to reach at last—only about half of China's territory. Even bombing planes cannot get to the great inner provinces which stretch in acres of fertility over an area large enough for another continent.

There millions of Chinese have lived a life apart from the modern world, a medieval life, continuing unchanged from centuries long gone. The modern educated China has not penetrated to that inner country.

He did not need to, for there were jobs and better salaries in the more or less modernized coastal provinces. He liked his comforts, cars, radios and moving pictures, instead of sedan chairs, old-fashioned tea-houses and village theatricals.

But now there is a vast movement inland, where Japanese armies cannot march and bombing planes cannot fly. Government is moving inland; universities are building plants far in the heart of such provinces as Szechuan and Yunnan; factories from the great industrial cities of the Yangtze River are moving their machinery inland. And the people of those provinces are thus coming into their first contact with modern times. China is becoming really modernized. In short, Motor roads are being built with incredible speed, and railways as well.

The Chinese are, of course, too intelligent and sophisticated a people to believe that there is ever so simple an end to a war as victory for one side and defeat for the other. They know that any war ends in compromise. But they are determined that in this compromise Japan shall completely withdraw from Chinese soil.

They are already planning how that can be done without making Japan suffer too much loss of face. The Chinese will not make the mistake in the final treaty with Japan which the Allied Powers made in the Treaty of Versailles, when Germany was so humiliated that she had no choice but to recover herself by any means she could. China is too clever for that.

She will fight doggedly on until Japan is desperate for peace, and then urbanely she will dictate the terms—not exorbitant terms, but terms which will leave Japan grateful rather than resentful. And just to show that she bears no ill-will to Japan for all that has happened, China will further save Japan's face. That Japan may not feel humiliated by having to withdraw alone, China will invite all foreign troops to withdraw. That is the American, English and French troops, so long maintained on Chinese soil, will be asked to depart with the Japanese armies.

China's after-war program calls for the liberation of Korea and Formosa, and it may be that in her post-war exhaustion, Japan will lose even these territories. If so, thus curbed and clipped, she can hardly hope to maintain her first-class rating as a world power. The future is not too bright for Japan.

This is going to be a long war—as long as China can make it, for one of her plans is that Japan will exhaust herself as much as possible, China herself being, as she knows, relatively inexhaustible, since her population and territory are so vast.

And after the war China will be the second nation.

Uncertainty Over Wheat

From the Baltimore Sun.

AS the farmers of the Southwest begin harvesting their unusually large crop of wheat, the financial world stands uncertain. Granted normal conditions in the world market, the bumper crop would be good news for the whole country. What the farmers lost in the price per bushel, they would more than make up in the number of bushels sold. As a consumer, the city man would benefit in the lower price of bread as a manufacturer and business man, he would benefit because of increased sales to the farmer.

But conditions are far from normal. The price which the farmer gets for his wheat is in a measure fixed, not by the world supply, but by the various instrumentalities set up by the Government to protect him and help him achieve that state called "parity." Crop-insurance loans, soil-conservation payments and several other elaborate devices stand between him and the world market. They mean, doubtless, that he will not starve. Do they mean that he will get a profitable price for his produce?

The answer to that question is not yet known. Hence the uncertainty in the financial world. The fall in the quoted price of farm implements shares means that some financiers are guessing that the farmers will not be protected by the various devices set up. Wheat has fallen to the lowest point in years. Other observers are taking a more optimistic view. They say that so matter what the price, the wheat will be there. It will have to be carried to the markets, it will have to be stored and processed and so on, and, therefore, some business activity will result.

However, there is one thing that is certain in all this. The Government is committed to its soil-conservation payments. That means money. The crop-insurance loans will have to be made, whether making them means that the Government will lose money or not. In short, money is to be spent. But this money, alas, will come out of the pockets of the taxpayer. He has to pay because his Government tells him he must. To him the big crop means that more money must be put up, more risked and in all probability more lost, all because someone, some time, conceived the idea of that mysterious quantity called parity and convinced a willing Congress and the administration that it was something that must be maintained regardless of the cost.

KULTUR.

From the New York Times.

ONCE more the books are to burn. Once again German Kultur will assure its continuity, this time by purging the Vienna National Library and disposing of all that is of "non-Aryan" origin or otherwise proscribed.

As the flames feed on these volumes from the Hofburg, they will cast queer, flickering shadows against the background of a day's news—of elderly men and women, citizens of Vienna, forced to dance before crowds of hoodlums and sing, "I am a dirty Jew," of children, made orphans by so-called "pacifists," shipped for export to the closed borders of a neighboring state—of a girl obliged to kneel and rise continuously while carrying a placard urging boycott of the store in which she had previously earned her living. The blood-red flames rise high. The shadows cast are long and black.

DANGER OF WALLPAPERING.

From the Des Moines Tribune.

That dark thinker, Lloyd George, said not long ago that the paperhanger keeps picking out new borders.

STOCK TRADE IS SLOWEST SINCE AUG. '34

Transfers Amount to Only 284,850 Shares — Most Leaders Shift Small Fractions Either Way — Irregularly Off at Close.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 3.—The stock market was extremely quiet today and most leaders shifted only small fractions either way.

It was one of the slowest full days' performances in the past 18 years, transfers amounting to only 284,850 shares. The turnover was actually the smallest for a full day since Aug. 20, 1914.

Aircrafts led a feeble early rallying attempt, but most issues were unable to stir up sufficient followings to move ahead. The list was irregularly lower at the close.

Debate on the leading-spend measure in Congress, together with maneuvering over the wage bill, left financial quarters cold, reflecting the cutting down of supplies in many producing fields, but stocks paid scant attention to this brighter development.

Rails Hold Fairly Well.
Pleasant to the brokerage fraternity was the statement of Chairman William O. Douglas of the Securities and Exchange Commission, that he saw no further need of "checking down" on the stock exchange, and that he was convinced future problems could be settled by the "round-table" method. This, however, resulted in no rush to accumulate shares.

Rails held fairly well as last week's freight loadings registered more than seasonal output. But it was in coal and ore. Aircrafts of Commerce report showing a substantial jump in passenger traffic for April over March and April last year. Motors had to contend with a sharp setback in production owing to this week's holiday and seasonal suspensions of production.

Shares in the backward class included General Motors, Bethlehem, International Harvester, J. I. Case, Standard Oil of N. J., Du Pont, Kenecott, American Smelting, Caterpillar Tractor, National Distillers and Johns-Manville.

Contesting the trend were Boeing Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Montgomery Ward, Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Southern Pacific, Goodyear and Homestead Mining. Numerous issues were unchanged.

Dome and McIntire Porcupine moved up at the finish. The losing column were Eastman Kodak, National Steel, Allis Chalmers, National Lead and United Fruit.

At mid-afternoon trading was up 3-16 of a cent at $4.94 11-16. The French franc was 27 1/2 of a cent higher at 27 1/2 cents.

Cotton advanced 85 to 95 cents a bale.

News of the Day.
Utilities such as Consolidated Edison, North American, Electric Power & Light and American Water Works were a shade in arrears the greater part of the time as the Senate eliminated a committee amendment to the pump-priming bill which would have prevented Federal loan construction in competition with existing private companies. The utilities ran up late yesterday on word that the President had not approved loans unless a "fair" rate had been made to purchase corporation properties involved.

NOTE INDICATES MOTHER AND DAUGHTER ENDED LIVES

Sheriff at Hope, Ark., Says Letter Read "I Can't Go On, Life Is Too Sad and Hard."

HOPE, Ark., June 3.—Sheriff James B. Bearden announced last night finding of what he described as a suicide note virtually completed his investigation into the deaths of Mrs. E. E. Haselman, 37 years old, and her married daughter at Ocean, 15 miles northwest of here.

Bearden said the note was found by Robert Simpson, brother of Mrs. Haselman, in a stove on a sleeping porch where his sister died.

Another note, unsigned, was found after Haselman, 84, husband and stepfather of the two women, had been detained for questioning. The note read: "I cannot go on. Life is too sad and hard."

MILLER BLOCKED AGAIN ON PRIMARY VOTE FRAUD CASES

Circuit Judge David J. Murphy Declines to Allow 1936 Ballots to Be Produced in Court.

SUPREME COURT RULING POINTED OUT

Circuit Attorney Silent as to Appeal, but Asks Other Judges for Ballot Subpenas.

Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller was blocked again in prosecution of vote fraud cases based on the 1936 primary election when Circuit Judge David J. Murphy today declined to allow the ballots, essential to proof of fraud, to be produced in court.

Explaining that he was forced to conform to the ruling of the State Supreme Court of May 21 that ballots must be destroyed one year after an election, Judge Murphy declined to issue a subpoena duces tecum for the ballots cast in the Fifteenth Precinct of the Fourth Ward.

The six election officials of that precinct in the 1936 primary were scheduled to go to trial Monday on charges of making false returns in the primary and in the election of party committee members, which was held at the same time.

They were members of a group of 48 indicted for fraud in the 1936 primary. There have been no convictions except that of John W. (Pat) Dunlavy, formerly chief inspector of the city's drivers' license bureau, which was set aside by Judge Frank C. O'Malley. A new trial was granted by Judge O'Malley.

Opinion of Judges.

After Judge Murphy had made his ruling, the Circuit Attorney remarked that he wanted to preserve his right to make the same application in the courts of Judges Michael J. Scott and William B. Flynn, where other 1936 primary fraud cases are pending.

Judge Murphy replied that he had conferred with his colleagues on the question of subpoenaing the ballots and they were of the same opinion as he, namely, that under the Supreme Court ruling, the ballots technically ceased to exist one year after the election and hence could not be brought into court for evidence.

The Circuit Attorney also told the Court that he wanted to preserve the right to appeal to the Supreme Court from the decision refusing the subpoena. Later, he declined to tell reporters whether he had decided to appeal, but after leaving Judge Murphy's court he immediately filed applications for subpoenas duces tecum in the courts of Judges Scott and Flynn.

Rulings Indicated.

After the applications had been filed, John L. Sullivan, special prosecutor in the election fraud cases, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that Judges Flynn and Scott said they would rule on them within a few days and that their ruling would be the same as that made today by Judge Murphy.

Judge Murphy's ruling was made at the conclusion of arguments by Circuit Attorney Miller and Sigmond M. Bass, representing the defense. The application was for subpoena duces tecum for all the records of the precinct, and Judge Murphy's ruling was that everything could be brought to court except the ballots.

"Legally Non-Existent."

In announcing his ruling, Judge Murphy pointed out that the Supreme Court had ruled unequivocally that ballots must be destroyed after one year, and that when 12 months have elapsed after an election the ballots of that election are "legally non-existent."

The Supreme Court's ruling was made in a case in which the State had attempted to subpoena the ballots from the First Precinct of the Fifth Ward for grand jury scrutiny in connection with an investigation of fraud in the riverfront bond issue election of Sept. 10, 1935. The ruling had the effect of blocking any further inquiry into that election.

E. ST. LOUIS THREATENS TO TAX PAYROLLS IF ST. LOUIS DOES

Finance Commissioner Talks of Retaliation on Proposed Levy on Non-Residents.

If St. Louis enacts the proposed payroll or occupational tax, aimed primarily at non-residents, East St. Louis will enact the same kind of an ordinance, John T. Connor, East St. Louis Finance Commissioner, said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

Such a tax would fall heaviest on East St. Louis merchants and industrial executives, he declared, adding that more than half of them in business on the East Side live in St. Louis or its suburbs.

The St. Louis plan, proposed by Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann and now being drafted for presentation to the Board of Aldermen, would put a tax, tentatively set at one-half of one per cent, on the earnings of each individual but credit would be given for personal real estate and license taxes paid the city, so that the chief burden would fall on non-residents who are employed in St. Louis.

The St. Clair County grand jury which recessed Wednesday within a few days of its consideration of charges against the Board of Education, Louis P. Zerk, said he learned that the grand jury at Belleville to the grand jury at its own request, after a consultation with the grand jury, which was the other inquiries.

Domhoff also refused to answer questions on which he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that at least $4000 in Negro precincts school board election and that certain board, designed to support the school board, were incomplete.

Domhoff complained at a meeting of the board meeting that the board of directors, at least $4000 in East St. Louis, of W. C. Gleason, a member of the board for 10 years, and secretary-treasurer, who was awarded contracts by the board, that the board of directors, who were directly involved in the school board contract, as under private contract.

Last September Domhoff complained at a meeting of the board of directors, who were directly involved in the school board contract, as under private contract.

STATE WPA HEAD WAS FIRED FOR

Denies Senator's Charge for Firing Head of the Associated Press

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 3.—State Administrator Murray declared yesterday that his investigation had disclosed support for the charge that Arthur Vandenberg, U. S. senator from Michigan, had been fired from the State WPA work camp because he was a "disloyal" person.

Murray, who sent a case to W. P. A. Administrator L. Hopkins, said that Vandenberg was a "disloyal" person and was discharged from the State WPA work camp because he was a "disloyal" person.

C. C. BIRCH FREED OF DRIVING WHEN

Appealed; $350 Fine Lessened Out to

C. C. Birch, superintendent of the Pattonville School, St. Louis, was acquitted by the St. Louis Circuit Court today of a charge of driving while intoxicated from a fine of $350 on driving while intoxicated, assessed by Police James F. Nangle Feb. 10 for lack of a city license and a suspension of his driver's license.

Judge Simpson sustained the charge of driving while intoxicated, but the Police Court fine of $350 was lessened out to $100.

The case was heard by Judge Simpson, who was a policeman who was a member of the St. Louis Police Association, testified that he saw Birch driving while intoxicated and that Birch had been arrested.

Birch said that he was a member of the St. Louis Police Association and that he was a policeman who was a member of the St. Louis Police Association.

E. ST. LOUIS SCHOOL BOARD UNDER INQUIRY

Grand Jury to Be Recalled—"Irregularities" Are Charged.

The St. Clair County grand jury, which recessed Wednesday, will be recalled within several weeks to consider charges "involving irregularities in the East St. Louis School Board," Louis E. Zerweck, State's Attorney at Belleville, said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

Zerweck said he could not discuss the nature of the charges, but it was learned that John Dornhoff, 1214 Cleveland avenue, a member of the School Board, has appeared at Belleville to testify before the grand jury at its unfinished session. After a consultation with him, Zerweck decided to recall the grand jury, which was then occupied with other inquiries.

Dornhoff also refused to reveal the matter on which he testified, but said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that at least $4000 had been spent in Negro precincts during the school board election last April, and that certain records of the board, designed to show expenditures, were incomplete.

Favoritism Charge.
At a meeting of the board four months ago, Dornhoff, who opposed school candidates on the "administration ticket" in the last election, charged that favoritism was being shown in the purchase of supplies under contracts.

Dornhoff complained before the board meeting that the Schaub Hardware Co., 314 East Broadway, East St. Louis, of which Herbert W. Gleasing, a member of the board for 10 years, is a stockholder and secretary-treasurer, sold supplies to contractors who had been awarded contracts by the board.

Gleasing pointed out to members of the board that the company sold no supplies directly to the board, but went out after business under School Board contracts the same as under private contracts.

Last September Dornhoff charged at a meeting of the board that "specifications permitted the award of a coal contract to a favored bidder." The East St. Louis Coal Dealers' Association also objected to the specifications as "vague and elastic," and requested the board to make them more specific in describing fuel for which it is inviting bids.

STATE WPA HEAD SAYS MAN WAS FIRED FOR INEFFICIENCY

Denies Senator's Charge J. A. Maupin, Creighton, Lost Job for Political Reasons.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 3. — State Administrator Matthew S. Murray declared yesterday an investigation had disclosed nothing to support the charge of Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, that politics had cost a Missouri WPA worker his job. Vandenberg declared on the floor of the Senate two weeks ago, that he had letters showing John A. Maupin, Creighton, Mo., had been dismissed "because he had a wrong attitude toward the administration."

Murray, who sent a report on the case to WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, said apparently Maupin was a dissatisfied employee and was discharged by Project Foreman William Helmuth for inefficiency. Helmuth, in his report to Murray's office, said he finally decided to dismiss Maupin but later learned the worker had a wife and two sons, and regretted asking for his release.

"So I wrote him a letter," Helmuth's report continued, "telling him, if you need this work and wish to come back I will do all in my power to have you reassigned, provided you are willing to change your attitude toward the administration and its operations." It was the latter phrase which brought Senator Vandenberg's charges, but Murray said he was convinced the foreman was referring only to the administration of WPA work on his specific project, and not to the national government. Helmuth's affidavit said both he and Maupin were Republicans.

C. C. BIRCH FREED OF CHARGE OF DRIVING WHEN INTOXICATED

Pattonville School Superintendent Appealed; $250 Fine for Carelessness Cut to $100.

C. C. Birch, superintendent of the Pattonville School, St. Louis County, was acquitted by Judge Joseph L. Simpson in the Court of Criminal Correction today on a charge of driving while intoxicated which had been assessed by Police Judge James F. Nangle Feb. 16. A fine of $5 for lack of a city automobile license and a suspension of a year of his driver's license also were set aside.

Judge Simpson sustained a charge of careless driving, but reduced the Police Court fine of $250 to $100, which Birch paid.

The case was heard May 20 and taken under advisement. Harry Steiner, 2818A Pennsylvania, a policeman who was off duty at the time, testified that Birch's automobile struck his at Delmar boulevard and Laurel street Feb. 1 and that Birch staggered afterward. He said Birch had alcohol on his breath.

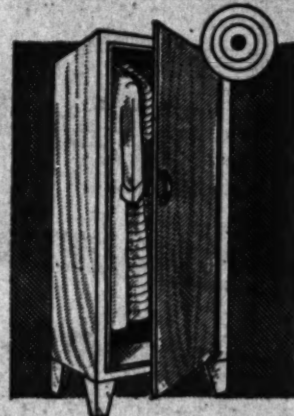

Birch said that Steiner's car turned left suddenly and struck his. He said he had one bottle of beer at the home of the School Board secretary, Mrs. Elsie Baldwin, on the way from the school to his home, 4914 Washington boulevard. Mrs. Baldwin corroborated this, saying Birch was sober when he left 15 minutes before.

Internal Organs

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

IN ASSESSING physical fitness, we want to know whether the great triumvirate of organs—the heart, kidneys and liver—are working properly. This is done by what are called functional tests. There may be a good deal of the matter with an organ anatomically and yet it functions quite capably.

DR. CLENDENING.

So that leaves the heart, kidneys and liver. I discussed the liver's functional tests yesterday.

FOR THE KIDNEYS, we have several functional tests. The best way to test an organ is to give it a full dose of what it ordinarily does. We can feed a man a load of the substances the kidneys ordinarily excrete and see whether it can concentrate them. Then there are tests with dyes to determine how much of the dye the kidney excretes. Besides that, if the kidney is not working, the chemicals it ordinarily casts off from the body will accumulate in the blood. Our knowledge of chemistry is so far advanced that we can determine the amount of these substances in the blood with great exactness.

It is too bad that there is no good functional test for the heart. The best method is to go through more or less severe exertion, such as going up a flight of stairs, or running a hundred yards. To test the heart, the pulse and blood pressure are taken before and after this exertion. But there is no definite standard, however, for the changes that should occur. There is too much individual variation.

It is a good thing that all these vital organs have a wide range of compensation. It is said that two-thirds of the liver can be destroyed, but what is left does all the work of the body. We probably do not use more than half of either kidney at any one time.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS.

F. M. "Recently you suggested change of climate for bronchitis sufferers. Would the climate of northern Minnesota be beneficial?"

Answer: No. The proper climate for bronchitis is a warm, dry, hot climate, best obtained in this country in Arizona and New Mexico. It is exactly the opposite of the climate in northern Minnesota.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Along the Potomac

By HARLAN MILLER

WASHINGTON, June 3.

GILT OFF THE DOME: There's been a little muttering about the corn-on-the-cob served in the Capitol restaurants; it's toughish. . . . Both Senatorial candidates in the supercharged Iowa campaign, Senator Gillette and his precocious young rival, Wearin, are teetotalers. . . . But Gillette is so liked and admired that he probably has to turn down more drinks. . . . For a tourist the biggest thrill is to ride in the "Senators Only" elevator with his Senator.

"HE SLEEPS WHILE OTHERS TALK."

Out-of-towners often comment on the excellent reception by auto radios in downtown Washington. . . . That's because the trolley wires are underground. . . . Which improves the static but leaves the program intact.

DIPLOMATIC DIDO: When Joe Kennedy comes back to see his son graduates, he's apt to run into some trouble. . . . Before he sailed over to be Ambassador, many a mama asked him if he'd present her daughter to King George, and he'd answer affably "Sure thing, your daughter will be first on the list."

Once in England he changed his mind, for good reasons, but not good enough to mollify the disappointed mammas. . . . They can't see why the Kennedy daughters should be presented and not our Suzie, and some of them want a handful of the ambassadorial red hair.

WHILE SENATORS Wheeler and Hiram Johnson were bombarding Hopkins and Ickes for meddling in the family quarrels of state primaries, benevolent Senator Ham Lewis rose smilingly to the defense of Secretary Ickes, off on his honeymoon.

"He should be exempted from observations," said the Illinois philosopher, "as evidently he is engaged in domestic exigencies in foreign relations." (Laughter: Congressional Record, page 9882.)

Tommy Corcoran, the White House roving missionary, who has positive notions about whom the several states should elect to the Senate, also has a notion, like Napoleon's, that four hours' sleep is enough; he likes to work while others sleep.

Tommy makes up for the brevity of his visits to dreamland by catching little three or four minute naps during the day, with his eyes wide open, while others are arguing with him or telling him funny stories about the traveling man and the farmer's daughter. He thinks he makes up a lot of sleep that way, and doesn't miss much.

OVER A MINT JULEP at the Mayflower, a young New Dealer offered to bet $10 that if he said in a loud tone of voice that Justice Black would resign from the Supreme Court in 1940 and run for President, the story would be all over town in 24 hours and be semi-officially denied inside of 48. . . . There were no takers.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By Bob Burns

I DON'T believe that anything has aided world progress more than that urge that strong men get to go places and do things. The other day my Uncle Unle confessed to Aunt Boo that for years he had been saving his money to take a trip to Mount Vernon and he says, "At last, I've got it and I can satisfy my life-long desire." Aunt Boo says, "Well, the weather's pretty bad—why can't we get some post cards of Mount Vernon and send 'em to our friends?"

Uncle Unle scoffed at the idea. He says, "Men don't travel that distance for such a silly thing as sending post cards!" and she says, "Well, why do you want to go to Mount Vernon?" Uncle Unle says, "Well, for one thing, I want a scratch my name on George Washington's tomb."

You have a split second to get rid of it. . . . Drew Pearson and Bob Allen have a hooey of an idea for the networks—titled "The Merry-Go-Round Table." . . . The Mags: Everybody's Digest reports that a college prof, making a survey of the habits of New Yorkers, found that two-thirds of the men in Times Square are hatless. . . . He should have gone downtown to Wall Street and counted the shirtless. . . . Dancing, says the Atlantic Monthly, is the most masculine of the arts. . . . The initial issue of "Connecticut Nutmeg" is high school paperish in style; its best feature being Quentin Reynolds' "Vienna, an Obituary." . . . His last line: "Everyone loved her. Except Hitler. So he killed her."

Radio Guide had bum luck with its cover. It was timed for the Big Race that was cancelled, and Scribner's Digest, the ace of the literary capsules, discusses a plan to reward safe drivers. . . . Isn't being alive reward enough?

DEVILED PORK CHOPS.

Mix together one tablespoon chili sauce, one tablespoon sugar, one-half teaspoon dry mustard, one-half teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon salt, and one tablespoon lemon juice. Pan broil lean pork chops on one side only, then gash slightly on both sides and cover with the sauce. Cover and finish cooking, turning now and then. Make a mound of mashed potatoes and arrange the chops in pyramid form about them. Serve very hot with the sauce poured over the potatoes.

FIVE CONTESTANTS TIED.

Some time ago we forgot to announce that we were offering a prize of a Mountain Cabin and an acre of ground in Nevada to the person who offered the most practical suggestion for exhibitors to attract more people into motion picture theaters. The contest was an effort to help exhibitors, who were greatly upset when the Government put its foot down on bank nights as violations of the lottery laws. As time went on, and we neglected to make our announcement, suggestions began pouring in. An unexpected complication arose when five people tied for first prize, and the judges finally decided to award the Mountain Cabin to all of the contestants, each of whom proposed that motion picture exhibitors have horse races up and down the aisles, drill for oil on the stage and give everybody a percentage of oil rights if a well came in, and place a steam shovel in the balcony for people to watch while the picture was showing.

PIGS WILL BE PIGS.

(The Lagrange (Ind.) Standard.) Ed Caldwell was pleasantly surprised by some rather strange visitors one evening last week. The family were gathered in the front room of their home; upon hearing commotion in the kitchen, they began to investigate, discovering that a family of pigs from the barnyard had found their way into the kitchen and were making themselves very much at home. Caldwell picked up the garbage pail and started towards the pig pen. Very reluctantly his guests followed him back to the barn.

Blue-black uniforms have been issued to 70 German editors in good standing by the Nazi Government. Blue-black eyes will probably be issued to editors not in good standing.

News photographers will wear blue-gray uniforms, with visored caps and capes, but only 24 of them have been selected for this honor. They'll be so busy clicking heels they'll forget to click shutters.

Because the source of life is not on this earth, astrologers have always had every right to investigate the actions of powers so great that they are able to move this and other planets. With the cause not on earth, the search for it must be in the heavens.

IF YOU ASK My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:

YOUR column has been a help to so many, that I am presuming to write you, also, asking for guidance. I have had a fair education, but, unfortunately, missed the social training that most girls have had and when some simple formality comes up, I am often at a loss to know how to proceed. For instance:

How should one answer an invitation to, say a formal society dance, requesting a reply?

2. What would be the correct reply for a more or less informal invitation with an "R. S. V. P."?

3. Does one reply to an invitation to a tea, and if so, how?

4. At a dance, when a boy cuts in, what is the polite thing for a girl to say to the partner she is about to leave? And if a boy, other than her escort, finishes the dance and takes her back to her seat, does she thank him first for an enjoyable dance or does the boy thank the girl?

I might ask friends about these things, but I am embarrassed to confess my ignorance. As I am badly in need of this information, I shall hope to see the answers in your column soon. It will indeed be a kindness on your part, if you can find space.

"GRATEFUL"

1. Miss Sara Smith accepts with pleasure the kind invitation of the Pi Beta Phi Sorority for Wednesday, the first of June.

(Regrets.)

Miss Sara Smith regrets that she is unable to accept the kind invitation of Pi Beta Phi Sorority for Wednesday, the first of June. The date is not really necessary on the note of regret.

2. Dear Miss Smith:

It will give me much pleasure to dine with you on Thursday at eight o'clock. Thanking you so much for thinking of me.

Always sincerely,

SARA SMITH.

1. Answer to a tea invitation is not necessary, unless requested (this is seldom done). Leave calling card in tray placed in the hall for that purpose.

2. Excuse me. I enjoyed it very much. (It is often done much less formally, I'll admit).

3. The boy thanks the girl when they return to her seat and she smiles and says it was fine, in return.

My "Sub-Deb Questionnaire" answers a good many other points which you might like to be sure of. Send me self-addressed, stamped envelope if you would like it mailed to you.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM A YOUNG woman, an orphan, very anxious to find my people and have tried very hard already. I was placed in an orphan's home in New York and I feel if I could get there I might have some success. No one knows how truly lonely I feel. I thought someone might be going to New York and would take me along to assist them on the trip. I've had no experience on a trip of this kind but would do my best to help and could give the best of references as to my truthfulness and loyalty and would want references from the party I might go with. I do so want to find my folks.

ORPHAN ANNIE.

I doubt if making the long trip would result in any more success than could be accomplished through correspondence with the orphan's home where you lived and with the Bureau of Lost Persons, Police Department, New York City. Ask the bureau of this name here the proper procedure. Were you to go with persons here just for the trip, you could do very little in New York without means to live on and for your expenses back to St. Louis.

Find the Cause :- By Angelo Patri

THE serious faults of childhood demand treatment and cure. By serious faults I mean those that people generally condemn—lying, stealing, cheating for personal gain, injuring others without reason or pity. At some time or other a child will show traces of one of these faults; a simple correction serves the purpose. When these tendencies seem to strengthen and continue in spite of treatment and corrections it is necessary to dig down into the child's life to discover the cause of the difficulty. Until that cause can be found and removed little can be done to change the child's behavior.

Begin early. Be honest with yourself about the child's doing. When you see him planning, executing and covering up a deception or any other sort of wrongdoing don't say, "It is all his active imagination," to comfort yourself and avoid the unhappiness of laying bare his error. Imaginative story-telling has a different quality from selfish lying, and any experienced adult knows the difference. Cowardice of spirit sometimes keeps us from facing the ugly thing when we see it rearing its head. Parents and teachers cannot afford that sort of self-indulgence. We have to dig down below the roots of the thing and cast it out.

HOW? THAT is a fair question, but nobody has the answer because each child varies according to his peculiar nature, and one has to study each mistake in relation to each child to find the answer. One child is in fear of social failure, another of punishment; one child is ill, and illness warps the thought of the patient. One child lacks the power to judge right from wrong; another is suffering from a disease of the nervous system. A few cases of bad behavior are caused by poor teaching and example at home. The causes are as varied as the behavior of the children, and must be skillfully uncovered.

This requires the co-operation of the family, the school, the whole social machinery that we have established for the safeguarding of childhood and youth. The physicians are learning more and more how to help erring children. So are the teachers and the mothers. All of us are needed. Time, patience, great faith and much effort go into the problem of curing the behavior cases, but the result justifies it.

I HAVE NO ONE remedy to offer, but my experience has taught me that there are a few ways that do not work though they have been used time on end. Public shaming of the children is very harmful. Beating them makes the bad matter worse. Crying over them and preaching at them only irritate and bewilder them the more. The only way that works is the slow and careful way, taken step by step, to the cause of the trouble.

Don't gloss over the facts to comfort yourself or excuse yourself. They cannot be removed that way. Don't feel disgraced, if you have told your best to help the child. Don't tell the world about his difficulties, but stand by him; keep his confidence; remain his friend. Never tell him that he is hopeless and that you can't do anything with him. Maybe you feel that way, but don't tell it. Try again and have faith in the ultimate success of your efforts. The great majority of children tend to goodness and to normal, average maturity.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM L. HUTCHESON. HE IS 76 YEARS OLD AND SHE IS 75.

By FRANCIS OLIVER.

WHEN a letter went astray 52 years ago it seemed to have ended the romance between Miss Price Bryan, then 24, and William L. Hutcheson, 24, school teachers in adjacent rural districts in St. Charles County. They had planned shortly to marry; instead, the misunderstanding that would have been healed by the letter grew, the plans faded, and the paths of the sweethearts diverged so completely they lost all trace of each other. But the romance was not dead. It was merely interrupted, and now, both great-grandparents, they have taken up the skein of their life where it was cut 52 years ago, and are Mr. and Mrs. William L. Hutcheson. They were married Saturday in Montgomery City, Mo., near the familiar scenes of their first courtship.

"I never forgot Price," Hutcheson said, as he and his bride sat side by side in the brightly flowered yard of what was his home, is now their home, at 8001 Laura street, East St. Louis. "I tried to find her several times, but never succeeded."

"Whenever I met anyone that I knew in those days, I would ask, although I knew she had married after we drifted apart. For the past several years, since my wife died four years ago, I have made efforts of all sorts to learn where she lived, and finally, last September, had the first word. Before that, we had met last in 1891, while she was visiting in St. Louis. I was already married then."

Hutcheson has been married twice before, and has a son and two daughters, two grandsons and two granddaughters, and a great-grandson and great-granddaughter. Mrs. Hutcheson has been married once previously—her first husband died about three years ago—and has three sons, six grandchildren and a great-grandson.

There were no indications of regrets at the long separation; only happiness at the ultimate reunion, and anticipation of a calm, peaceful and congenial future ahead of them. In fact, both are as radiant as any young couple would be at just getting married, and both could pass for many years less than their actual age. Hutcheson, at 76, is a tall, lean, hard-muscled man, whose hair is barely beginning to gray. Mrs. Hutcheson is a small woman, but equally active, prone to laughter, and much amused at the idea that her children had not yet been informed of the marriage.

IT WAS with no idea of objection or interference by the children that the Hutchesons literally eloped to Montgomery City to get married. Hutcheson's children that were questioned seemed as elated as the newlyweds about the romance, seem to think it was really quite something for their father and new mother to spring a surprise on them. The secrecy was because the Hutchesons were afraid there would be too much celebration; Hutcheson in fact, suspected a "charivari" would be awaited them on their return if they told of their plans.

Also, they wondered slightly what people would say, although that did not greatly concern them. "One friend asked me why I wanted to get married at my age," Hutcheson commented, and I told him I had as much reason as a young man, at least I was old enough to know my own mind. And after more than 50 years Price and I still felt that we wanted to get married that was as good a reason as any."

thing about my old girl, Price Bryan. Well, she told me she thought Price had a sister in Joplin, and when she went there to visit her own son in a few weeks, she would try to find out what had happened to Price, and let me know."

"About a month later, in October, I got a card from Cousin Annie saying that Price was living in Bolivar, and was a widow, as her husband had been dead about three years. I wrote and we began to correspond, and then I persuaded Price to come to St. Louis to visit her sister, Mrs. C. H. Joyce. Then I began to court her all over again."

"I was your daughter who wrote to me first," corrected Mrs. Hutcheson. They discussed the point for a moment, and then agreed that the daughter, Mrs. Elmer Wangelin of East St. Louis, had written first and had said her husband wanted to correspond. The discussion also brought out that the courtship had at least a start in the correspondence but Hutcheson had done his most successful persuading after the reunion here.

A PRESENT IN BAD TASTE :- By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

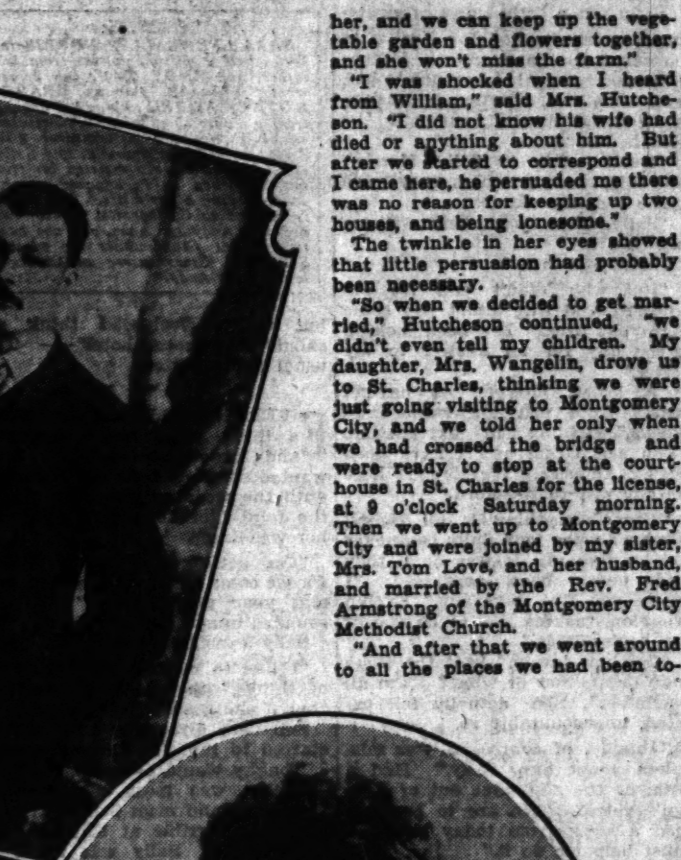

A YOUNG woman, who once was the fiancée of the man I am to marry shortly, has sent a wedding present to me addressed to my fiancé. I never have met this person and think her choice of a present rather personal to send to a stranger—especially under the circumstances. It is a very fine lace and silk blanket cover. Shall I acknowledge this gift or do you think my fiancé ought to thank her instead?

Answer: I agree with you that her choice of a present was in a strangely bad taste. But short of creating an unpleasant situation, there is nothing for you to do except write her a note of polite thanks—the same sort of note that you would write to anyone who for business reasons, for example, may have sent you a present. I would not under any circumstances ask my fiancé to write this note for me, nor in writing her would I even mention him.

Dear Mrs. Post: (1) How does one introduce a new husband to friends who do not know that there has been a marriage and who do not know my married name. (2) How are friends greeted from across the restaurant floor?

Answer: (1) Say "My husband"—and then pause and add, "His name is John Jones." (2) A woman bows and smiles whether to a man or to a woman. A man bows to a man but he should half rise in his seat as he bows to a woman.

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently we received a wedding invitation from a relative and this was addressed

How to Raise Suit Take-Out Of Responder

Analysis of Hand, With Bases of Double and Single Raises.

In any discussion of intermediate bidding, we come to the question of raising responder's suit take-out. Let us consider the following hand:

1. In the South position, we allow ourselves to be so pleased with the spade response that we now strongly urge partner to go to game, by giving him a double raise. For there is to be a raise of the fact that partner is permitted, in fact invited, to respond to our opening heart bid with the higher ranking spade suit on as little as one-half honor trick. Obviously, if that is all he holds, there will be no play for game, unless he has very frankish distribution. As a matter of fact, if we make this double raise and find partner with an absolute "mummy," although he will pass he will need luck to fulfill even a three spade contract. # Things Once Held Dangerous By Dale Carnegie

WHEN Harold Pest contracted with H. G. Wells to give a series of lectures in America, Wells insisted on incorporating into his contract a clause stating that he must fly from one lecture engagement to another. When asked why he insisted on flying, he replied that it was swift, convenient and not dangerous. "When I was a youth," he said, "it was considered dangerous to ride on a train. When I was still younger, my mother wouldn't permit me to have a bicycle because she felt a bicycle was dangerous."

All advance in the science of transportation has been regarded as dangerous. When the railroads were first introduced, they were not only considered dangerous, but were also denounced as a sin. The Almighty, people declared, had never intended that people should travel as fast as 20 miles an hour. Farmers complained that the smoke from the engines would blacken the wool of their sheep.

I love rodeos. I have attended them everywhere from "The Stampede" at Calgary, Canada, and "Frontier Days" at Cheyenne, Wyo., to the rodeo at Fort Worth, Tex.

The strangest sight I saw at the last Fort Worth rodeo was a Chinese boy standing in the center of the arena singing "Home on the Range." The most graceful event of the show was Chester Byers roping horses. (Chester taught Will Rogers to rope.)

And the most humorous event was a monkey riding a donkey around the arena. The monkey and the donkey are inseparable companions. They share the same stall and the monkey sleeps at night on the back of the donkey.

I had my picture taken with the champion white-faced bull at Fort Worth. He was worth $10,000. When the picture appeared in the papers the next day, part of the caption read, "The bull is on the right."

In the careers of able men we find many examples of strategy. When Walter Chrysler was a youthful shophand at 30 cents an hour in a railroad roundhouse at Salt Lake City he was asked, in an emergency—on a morning when a large part of the force was off duty—whether he could put a certain locomotive into condition and have it ready by 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The work was far beyond his experience—but he didn't say so. He concealed his doubts, put up a bold front, asked for some men and set to work. The engine was ready by 3 o'clock. This was the turning point in Walter Chrysler's career.

A tin box containing home-made cookies or candy is always a pleasing gift for the person who boards and has no facilities for cooking.

FORGOTTEN BRIDE

A Romantic Serial

By LOUISE HOLMES

Sally Phones Evelyn Fortner and Is Invited to Have Dinner With Her—Andy Kay Arrives.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO.

THE old lady patted Sally's shoulder approvingly. "That's my girl. My," she remarked, "I'd like to stir something up tonight. You don't know anyone in Chicago, do you?"

"I know Evelyn Fortner," doubtfully. "I want to call her some time while we're here. It would be fun to see Evelyn again."

Gram carefully put pink polish on her nails. She looked up. "The very thing. Why didn't I think of that before. Call her this minute and ask her to have dinner with us."

Sally felt a little surge of excitement as she waited for Evelyn to be called to the telephone. Evelyn Fortner represented so much to her, a childish love, a lasting friendship, a beautiful dream nurtured by loneliness.

"Evelyn—this is Sally Norris," she said, when a rich, creamy voice came over the wire.

"Sally—bless your heart—where are you?"

Sally told her. "But why didn't you let me know? And why didn't you come right out here? I've been looking every day for an answer to my letter."

"A letter, Evelyn? I haven't heard from you for weeks and weeks," adding in explanation. "You see, Gram and I have been seeing America. We stopped here on our way to Ramford."

"Then everything is all right," Evelyn's voice took Sally back over six long years. It was as if they had never been separated. "I wrote you five days ago," Evelyn went on, "asking you to be one of my bridesmaids."

"Oh, how lovely. Is it the same man or another or what? I'm all excited—" She actually felt excited, unaccountably so.

"Toughy, of course. I was mistaken about him, Sally." Had a little of the seat gone out of Evelyn's voice? "We are to be married a week from today and you must help me do it."

"I'll love it, Evelyn. Oh, it's been sweet of you to remember me all these years."

Evelyn's laugh was throaty. "You were the sweetest, shyest little kid. Are you still afraid of people, Sally?"

"Perhaps a little," with an answering laugh at her own shortcomings. "Gram is doing her best to bring me out of the kinks."

"I want to meet that lady. I'll send Sims for you at once. You must both stay with us until after the wedding."

There it was again. Each time Evelyn mentioned her wedding Sally received a definite impression of something—flatness or weariness. Unfamiliar as she was with Evelyn's tones, there was no doubt about it.

"I have my own car, you know,"

the park and near North Side.

Sally stayed in her line and the blue car slid along, stopping and starting with mechanical precision.

"I'm doing pretty well, don't you think?" she asked, a little breathless.

"Perfectly, Sally. I'm as free from care as if Ben and I were sitting in the Vermont kitchen, and much more thrilled," Gram told her.

"Andy taught me to drive," with the wistfulness always apparent in her voice when she spoke of Andy.

"And he'd be mighty proud of you," stoutly, as they slipped between a lumbering bus and a taxicab with only a few inches to spare.

"Just think, Gram, Andy may be in one of these cars. Somehow I feel him near." Sally came to a quick stop behind a long line while cars fled by on either side.

"Strange—I have the same feeling." After a silence Gram remarked, "These cars remind me of water-bugs on a tub. I wonder if they all know where they're going."

Sally laughed. She felt excited, elated for no reason. "We can only hope they do," she said.

"Do I look all right, Gram?" she asked. "I don't want Evelyn to be disappointed."

"You're as pretty a girl as I ever saw, and that's the truth," Gram replied firmly. "Keep your chin up, laugh a lot and if you can't talk be interested in what other people have to say. That's better anyway."

UNDER a soft fur coat Sally wore a black velvet dinner dress. It was simply and youthfully cut, long flaring skirt, a tailored collar of gold embroidery and short puff sleeves.

Her small hat, made of transparent gold, seemed part of her shining hair. When she moved there was the soft swish of tulle.

Sally thought, "I'll pretend I'm Mrs. Andy Kay," as Gram opened the car door.

A man in livery came from the house, greeting them politely. Then Evelyn, slender as a silver arrow, was silhouetted against the lighted doorway.

She was a tall girl with smoky black hair, worn in a long bob, a graceful figure and beautiful slim arms. With both hands outstretched she ran down the steps.

"Sally—you lovely thing," she sounded surprised and indeed she was surprised. This was definitely

YOUTH tells its Story!

Every father, every mother, every graduate looking for his first job, every college student, every schoolboy and schoolgirl will want to read and study today's new issue of LIFE.

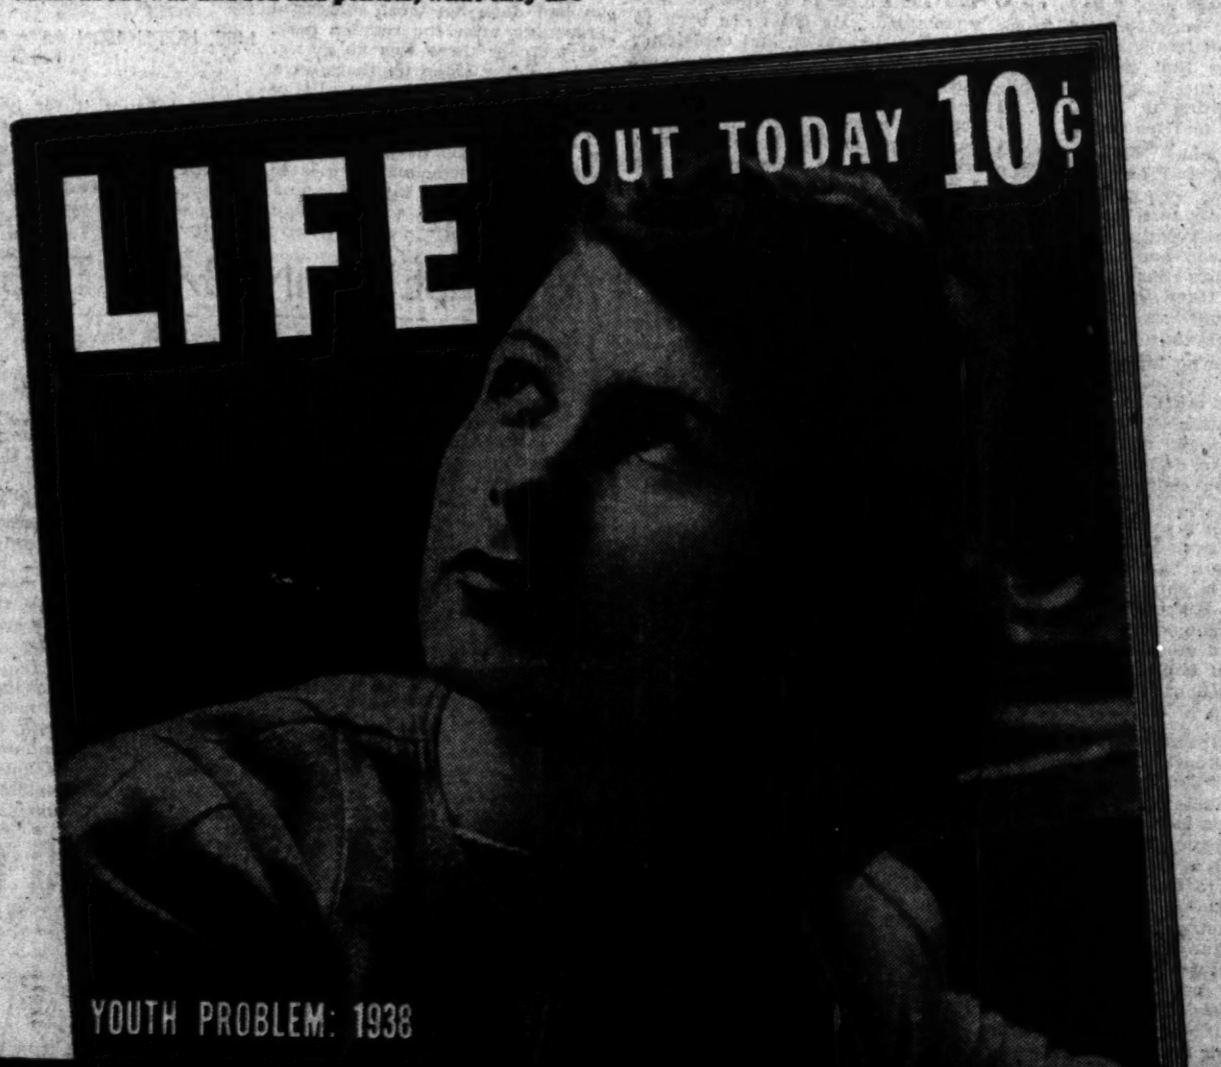

For this week, LIFE devotes 50 pages to a revealing and significant cross-section of the lives and activities of the twenty million young Americans between the ages of 16 and 24.

LIFE shows you how rich girls live and how poor boys struggle — on the farm, in the factory, in the classroom. LIFE shows you what they think about war and sex and politics, what they are doing to develop a new code of morals, and what they think about the economic system under which most graduates are finding it so hard to get jobs.

LIFE's unique pictorial survey of American Youth is a social document of the utmost importance, inspired and guided by the two-year research of the American Youth Commission. Until you have seen it, you cannot fully understand the hopes and problems of America's next — and perhaps most important — generation.

Be sure to get your copy of LIFE today!
